House Committee Votes For 30 Pct. Income Tax Cut

BIG REDUCTION IN LOW INCOME GROUP FAVORED

Proposed Cuts Expected To Be Passed By House Next Week

WASHINGTON, March 21 — The house ways and means committee today approved a tax reduction bill giving a 30 per cent income tax slash to 20 million low-income taxpayers and a 20 per cent cut to an additional 28 million persons.

The committee vote of 16 to 9 was divided along party lines, with one unnamed Democrat voting with the 15 Republicans for the bill.

The measure, which will cost the government an estimated $3,886,000,000 in revenue, now goes to the house for passage.

REP. KNUTSON (R) Minn., ways and means committee chairman, said GOP leaders plan to call the bill up in the house next Wednesday. Passage is expected Thursday.

Knutson and other committee Republicans will go before the rules committee Tuesday and ask for a closed rule which is expected to result in house approval of the bill without amendment.

GOP chiefs will attempt to line up the house Republican membership behind the bill at a special conference Monday.

The measure, as approved by the committee, would give taxpayers having not more than $1,000 of taxable income, a 30 per cent cut in personal income taxes.

Taxpayers having more than $1,000, and up to $303,000 of taxable income would receive a 20 per cent reduction.

On income of individuals above $303,000, a 10 per cent reduction would apply.

THE BILL contains "notch" provisions smoothing the transition from a 30 per cent reduction to a 20 per cent cut for taxpayers in the lower brackets. This provision is a graduated decline in the percentage tax cut.

Under it, taxpayers receiving up to $1,000 taxable income, would receive a maximum reduction of $37 in their income taxes. This would be the cut for all taxpayers having up to $1,395 taxable income.

Those who worry about the secret agreement of Yalta should turn to the books of Elliott for comfort.

Conciliation Service Pay Is Cut Off

WASHINGTON, March 21 — The house appropriations committee today cut off the salaries of 100 officials and employees of the U. S. conciliation service, including its director, Edgar L. Warren, and demanded their dismissal.

The committee's action, if upheld by congress, would become effective July 1.

The committee denounced Warren as unfit for his post, accused him of having been a member of Communist organizations, and charged that he was guilty of "loose handling of public funds."

The powerful group said the other employees were not needed and charged that the conciliation service "has been loaded (Continued on Page Two)

Government Says UN Group 'Scandalously Biased' Against Greece

SALONIKA, Greece, March 21 —The Greek government blew the tops off its smoldering feud with the United Nations Balkans commission today by dispatching a letter protesting that the group is "scandalously biased" against Greece.

The letter was addressed to the commission on the eve of its departure from Salonika to Sofia, Bulgaria. It was signed by Alexis Kyrkou, Greek liaison officer.

The letter charged that the commission's press officer, Stanley Ryan, had sent to the U. N. security council by cable incorrect reports on the "Markos incident" and other acts against the Greek government. The "Markos incident" referred to the attempt of U. N. commission members to interview guerrilla leader General Markos inside rebel-dominated territory in northern Greece.

MRS. MARSHALL ONE OF NATION'S 'BEST DRESSED'

NEW YORK, March 21—Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the secretary of state, today was judged "the best dressed woman of the year in public life" by the New York Fashion Academy.

Last year's winner in this particular category was Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas, a member of the American delegation to the United Nations.

The academy lauded Mrs. Marshall for her "intelligent selectivity of the correct gown for the important functions where protocol is the rule."

Other winners in their respective fields were:

Kay Francis, stage; Maggi McNellis, radio; Joan Barton, supper clubs; Patricia Travers, concert; Doris Duke, society.

Louise Albritton, screen; Mrs. Jerome K. Ohrbach, "young matron"; Rise Stevens, opera; Mrs. Leon Mandel, "international set"; Lorraine Dresselhuys, debutante; Vivien Kellems, business; and Mrs. Walter Thornton, fashion promotion.

Potato Crop To Be Cut By American Farmers

WASHINGTON, March 21 — The American farmer, determined to prevent a repetition of last year's huge potato surplus, plans to cut 1947 potato acreage to the smallest since 1884.

An agriculture department survey of prospective plantings showed today that present plans call for 2,310,000 acres of potatoes in 1947, compared to 2,625,450 in 1946.

Decision to cut production was blamed on difficulties in marketing the record-high 1946 crop and to a "long-time downward trend" in potato acreage.

Plantings are expected to be less than 1946 in all states except Indiana and South Carolina. In Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa they are expected to be only about one-half of the 1936-45 average.

If the farmers stick to their stated plans, a national potato crop of 355 million bushels will be produced, based upon the average yield for 1942-46. Such production would be 25 per cent under the 1946 record high of 474,610,000 bushels.

However, if the tremendous 1946 yield of 181 bushels per acre is duplicated, the 1947 crop will amount to 418 million bushels.

BRITISH PLAN OF GOVERNMENT FOR GERMANY UP

Bidault Believes His Speech Will Not Cause Trouble At Moscow Confab

MOSCOW, March 21 — A British plan for establishing a federalized Germany, with a central government for foreign affairs and economic matters was submitted today to the council of foreign ministers.

The plan submitted at this afternoon's council session by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin recommended that Germany's political structure should have for its core a two-chamber legislature, a president, and a supreme court.

POLICE and other vital political powers would be vested in "laenders" (states) under the British plan.

Of the two chambers proposed, one would represent the nation as a whole while the other represents the laenders.

Bevin declared that, under his plan:

"Rights and duties of the president should be limited to those exercised by the constitutional head of a state without independent executive authority."

"The chamber representing the nation as a whole should be popularly elected and should be responsible for initiating central legislation and passing it."

"The chamber representing the laender should be elected on the basis of equal representation for each laender. It shall have powers of absolute veto on constitutional matters and a suspensory veto on other legislation."

Exodus Of Teachers Is Feared

MARTINS FERRY, O., March 21 — An eastern Ohio educator forecast today an exodus of Buckeye teachers to neighboring West Virginia unless Ohio at least matches that state's newly increased salaries.

C. A. Taylor, superintendent of Martins Ferry schools, issued the warning that "hundreds" of Ohio teachers might cross the river for more lucrative jobs in West Virginia. He said:

"I fear that thousands of Ohio children will lose their teachers at the end of the school year because of the recent action of the West Virginia legislature, increasing state school aid by 66 per cent."

Taylor recommended that the Ohio legislature act to establish a minimum annual salary of $2,000 for teachers holding college degrees.

10 SCHOOLS IN COUNTY CLOSED

Ashville Classes Dismissed As Flu Epidemic Hits More Students

BULLETIN Illness of students and teachers caused the closing of the Pickaway Township school Friday noon. School officials said they hoped to reopen the school Monday.

Closing of the Ashville-Harrison High and elementary school at Ashville had increased to 10, Friday, the total of schools closed in Circleville and Pickaway county as a consequence of the state-wide epidemic of colds and influenza. The city and county has a total of 20 schools.

As a result of the forced closing of 50 per cent of the schools more than 2,000 boys and girls were away from their classes.

CIRCLEVILLE's one high and four elementary schools are scheduled to reopen Monday morning.

George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools, announced he did not know when the rural schools will be reopened. The closed rural schools include Scioto township high and elementary, Darbyville elementary, and the Duval and South Bloomfield elementary schools.

THE INFLUENZA epidemic lashed out at more communities today.

Suburban Strongsville schools closed yesterday, the first to do so in Cuyahoga county, after substitutes could not be found for several striken teachers. Total enrollment is approximately 500.

BRITISH ARREST ALLEGED LEADER OF UNDERGROUND

JERUSALEM, March 21—Unconfirmed reports circulating in Jerusalem today said that British authorities in Palestine had arrested the leader of the militant Irgun Zvai Leumi organization and several other key men believed responsible for Holy Land violence.

The report which could not be substantiated immediately in any official quarter said the arrests were made yesterday.

The leader of the Irgun group reported to have been arrested was said to be known as "Avi-noam".

He was said to have been taken into custody in the Gushat quarter, a district recently under British martial law.

'STICKUP' MEN FAIL IN EFFORT TO GET MONEY

Trio Captured 40 Minutes After Being Frightened From Village Bank

Three youthful bandits who staged an attempted holdup of the First National bank at New Holland, 17 miles west of Circleville, were captured without resistance 40 minutes later by police at London.

London police said the prisoners have the following names: Charles Maley, 23, Donald Neff, 17, and Carson Rice, 18, all of Springfield.

No money was obtained in the holdup. Robert Kirkpatrick, assistant cashier of the bank said two entered the bank and the third remained in the trio's blue 1942 Ford sedan.

KIRKPATRICK said the two produced nickel-plated revolvers and announced "This is a hold-up—where is the money?" John Dick, cashier, and Kirkpatrick were counting money on a table, while George Kirk, bank president, was at the teller's window.

Two or three times the hold-up men repeated "Where is the money?" and Kirk told them there was no money. Just at this point Dick slipped out the back door to seek help. The rear door slammed shut. This frightened the two robbers who fled to their automobile and the three would-be holdup men raced east on U. S. Route 22 toward Circleville.

Kirkpatrick said that the two men who entered the bank appeared amateurish and nervous and that the cylinder dropped (Continued on Page Two)

THOMPSON IN QUANDARY OVER 'WHITE PRIMARY'

ATLANTA, Ga., March 21 — M. E. Thompson faced his first crucial test as acting governor of Georgia today as he ponders a course of action to "insure" white primary elections for the state Democratic party.

The white primary bill, already has been passed by the general assembly. But it bears the signature of Herman Talmadge whose election was ruled illegal by the supreme court and whose two-month "administration" was nullified by a legal opinion from the state's attorney general.

The bill, therefore, will not become law unless it is signed by Governor Thompson.

Should Thompson affix his signature to the bill, he will do so after branding it in his "inauguration" address yesterday as "a measure that would strike out every primary election law from the statutes of our state and allow fraud and stolen elections to run rampant in Georgia."

SOVIET CITIZENS BARRED FROM MARRYING ALIENS

LONDON, March 21 — From now on, no Soviet citizen can marry a foreigner.

At least, so said a Reuters dispatch from Moscow today. It stated that a decree of the presidium of the Supreme Soviet published by the "Gazette of the Supreme Soviet" had placed a ban on marriages between Soviet citizens and aliens.

RUSSIANS SEIZE STUDENTS LONDON, March 21—A Berlin dispatch to the London-Daily Telegraph said today that Russian plainclothes agents are seizing and removing considerable numbers of university students in the Soviet held zone of Germany. The wave of disappearances was said to have deeply perturbed American, British, and French officials in Germany.

As indicated several times during recent days, American delegation sources this afternoon reaffirmed Secretary of State George C. Marshall's unrelenting attitude regarding his "bill of rights" for the Germans.

These quarters again said Marshall will remain adamant in his demands that Germany as a whole be guaranteed democratic liberties when the treaty becomes effective.

DELEGATES who foresaw possible insurmountable obstacles in expressed French demands for prior assurances that France receive annual allotments of German coal before agreeing to any major decisions were relieved by new word from Bidault.

Asked about the chances of success at the conference, Bidault told newsmen:

"We shall come home with results."

He declared that "it is impossible" that no agreement is to be reached at all.

Suggesting that he would continue to bargain in support of his country's demands but did not intend to wreck the parley, Bidault added:

"There are many figures on a chess board."

BOARD BACKED IN OUSTER OF SCHOOL HEAD

CINCINNATI, March 21—Common Pleas Judge Thomas H. Morrow denied today an injunction sought to prevent the ouster of Dr. William A. Cook as superintendent of suburban North College Hill schools.

Refusal of the Cincinnati suburb's school board to renew Dr. Cook's contract has resulted in a strike by the students of senior and junior high schools. Only six of 550 pupils reported to their classes today in the third day of the strike.

North College Hill school improvement association had sought an injunction to prevent the board from declaring the superintendent's office vacant when Dr. Cook's contract expires July 31.

Miss Amelia Dipilla, president of a teachers' group, said that the teachers did not plan to strike also but that "17 or 18" of them would leave with Dr. Cook.

MURDER CHARGES TO BE PRESSED AGAINST COUPLE

SANTA ANA, CAL., March 21—Chief of Police R. R. Hodgkinson of nearby Newport Beach, said today that he will seek murder complaints against Beulah Louise Overell, 17, and George R. Gollum, 21, her fiancé.

The heiress and the young Los Angeles city college student are in custody as suspects in the yacht blast deaths of her wealthy parents.

The chief said he would ask District Attorney James L. Davis of Orange county to issue the complaints on the basis of evidence disclosed by the autopsy performed on the bodies of financier Walter E. Overell and his socialite wife, Beulah.

The post-mortem report revealed evidence that the Overells might have been beaten to death before the explosion occurred in Newport Harbor Saturday night.

closed. Some 150 students remained home.

City Health Commissioner Harold J. Knapp reported that no general shutdown of schools in the city system was expected although influenza was epidemic in several areas.

Chardon schools were to remain closed until Monday and Helena school in Fremont closed again after a brief resumption.

Ravenna reported 14 per cent of all school pupils absent and 15 per cent were out at Kent. Streetsboro schools in Portage county remained closed.

In Newark, 20 per cent were absent. Cincinnati officials said the disease was on the wane in that area.

The committee reduced the amount requested by the administration by only $77,825,520, less than five per cent.

JAYCEES PLAN SAFETY SLOGAN SCHOOL CONTEST

Three-week safety slogan contest with Circleville school children competing for cash awards will be sponsored, it was announced Friday, by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with school officials.

The contest will begin next Monday, March 24 and will end at the close of the school day April 15. Competition will be limited to boys and girls of school age.

The awards to the winners in three age groups—those under 10 years of age, those 10 to 14, and those over 14—will be first prize $5, second prize $2, and three honorable mention awards of $1 each.

Rules for the contest will be made public before Monday. The board of judges will be composed of representatives of several service organizations in Circleville.

The winning slogans will be used during the Jaycees School Safety Week which starts April 21.

Members of the Jaycees school safety committee, in charge of the contest, are: Frank Wanz, chairman; Arthur Waggar, co-chairman; Robert Elsea, William Herbert and Charles Brown.

pending cut in potato acreage. They are still wrestling with the problem of disposing of a surplus which was estimated at forty-five million bushels on Jan. 1. They have ordered disposal of all low grade surplus and are doing their best to peddle the rest.

The projected planting report also revealed that farmers will plant 358 million acres in all crops this year, compared with 355.5 million last year.

Spring wheat acreage is expected to drop one-tenth of one per cent, but the large Winter wheat seeding last Fall will counteract this slight drop and make 1947 the biggest wheat year since 1938.

troops of the regular Greek army.

After spending some time with the bandit-infested area without making contact with General Markos, the majority of investigators returned to Athens.

Ryan's reports were said to have been "definitely misleading and entirely incorrect in parts."

When shown a copy of his cable report, Ryan declared that it was "not the same as I added. Some things have been added and some others are missing."

Kyrou added a further allegation that Ryan acted without the knowledge of the commission.

The cable was said to have pointed out that the failure of commission investigators to contact Gen. Markos resulted from actions of the Greek army.

level, the 20 per cent reduction would begin to figure out at a greater figure than $57.

The tax reduction would be retroactive to last Jan. 1. However, new withholding tables showing the reduced rates would not go into effect until July 1, so that taxpayers would be due a refund of excess taxes withheld in the first half of 1947.

THE WAYS and means committee defeated by a straight party vote of 15 to 10 a motion by Rep. Doughton (D) N. C., to postpone action on the tax cut measure until the budget conference had determined the exact amount of the proposed cut in President Truman's budget.

Doughton criticized Republicans for bringing out the tax cut measure without first determining the amount of economies which may be effected in the President's budget. He said:

"I have never heard of anything like this."

Doughton recalled that the house had passed a resolution calling for a six billion cut in the President's budget on Feb. 20, and that the senate had approved a 4.5 billion reduction on March 3 and had sent the budget resolution to conference.

MURDER THEORY IS CHECKED IN POISON DEATHS

Parents Believe U. S. Officer Found Dead in Japan Was Murdered

TOKYO, March 21 — U. S. Army agents maintained unusual secrecy today in their continuing investigation of the strange poison deaths of Lt. Robert L. Wilson and Kiyoko Takodo, a beautiful Japanese girl.

Wilson, whose home was in Plymouth, Mass., and Miss Takodo were found dead March 14 in a small hotel near Tokyo, apparently the victims of a love-suicide pact.

Preliminary medical examination disclosed that both had swallowed lethal poisons of a poison noted for its swift action.

Despite Army secrecy, International News Service learned that fifth air force agents are not satisfied with the theory that the American airman and the Japanese girl died together because they would soon part, perhaps forever.

A possibility that Wilson was murdered has entered the investigation and exhaustive medical and crime laboratory tests are being conducted to explore every angle of the murder theory. Post-mortem examinations of both bodies are expected to require another four days to complete.

INVESTIGATORS were inclined to doubt the suicide theory because Wilson had never betrayed the slightest indication of despondency in any of his relations with fellow officers.

(This doubt was bolstered by Wilson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson of Plymouth, and by Miss Theresa Klassen of Charles City, Ia.

Mrs. Wilson declared, "My boy was murdered," and added that "every one of his letters made it plain he looked forward happily to the day he would marry Miss Klassen."

(Miss Klassen revealed that she received a letter from Wilson only last Tuesday. She said he had asked her to look around for a house, that he hoped to be out of the Army by April 25, and that they would be married when he returned home. "I can't believe it," she sobbed.)

DRAFT LEADER PREDICTS WAR WITHOUT NOTICE

WASHINGTON, March 21—Brig. Gen. Ames T. Brown, New York state selective service chief, declared today that without the present draft machinery it would take six months for the United States to build up an effective fighting force in the event of a sudden war.

Brown made his prediction at the start of a meeting of state selective service directors called to Washington to consider problems resulting from the expiration of the draft act on March 21. He agreed with military experts that the next war probably will start without warning, that the United States would be the first target, and the outcome might be determined almost at the outset.

According to ancient myths, a dragon guarded the well of Ares. Cadmus slew the dragon and sowed some of the teeth from which sprang the race of Spartans.

VERY SNOOTY is this little pig who, having gone to market, believes he can bring home his own bacon. Other ideas appear to be in the mind of Frank Tornabene, chef in a Los Angeles cafe, who doesn't like to be ridiculed by ham actors and, as can be seen, is clever with the cleaver. With pork prices at their present level, the piglet—however cute he looks—may get his knuckles rapped if he isn't careful. (International)

KENNEY PAINTS ATOMIC BOMB BLAST PICTURE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 21—Here's what would happen if an atom bomb were dropped in Times Square, New York, as told by Gen. George C. Kenney, chief of the strategic air command:

"Imagine that bomb exploding in Times Square and picking up a section of Manhattan island a half mile in diameter, throwing it a mile high and then having the pieces rain down over an area three or four miles from Times Square."

Kenney said that in that half-mile diameter circle there are about 100,000 people, adding:

"It is inconceivable that any of them could survive. This is no theoretical dream—this picture is real. We can really speculate on the effect of a bomb dropping in the Hudson or East river and deluging this whole area with radio-active water and steam."

HEETER TRIAL SLATED TO START NEXT MONDAY

Glenn Heeter, 22, Route 2, Ashville, will go on trial Monday before a jury in Pickaway county common pleas court in Circleville for automobile theft, it was stated Thursday by County Prosecutor Kenneth Robbins.

Heeter was indicted several weeks ago by the grand jury. He pleaded not guilty before Judge William D. Radcliff. Notifications were mailed Thursday by Clerk of Courts Arthur L. Wilder to a panel of 25 potential jurors.

Heeter is accused of stealing a pickup truck owned by the Ohio Fuel Gas company. The truck was stolen early on the morning of Jan. 14 from in front of the home of Frank Marion, 307 East Franklin street, gas company service man. Heeter was subsequently arrested at Chillicothe. He is not the Glenn Heeter who is employed by the Ohio Fuel Gas company.

Soil Conservation Notes

By J. A. Muster

Four fertilizer tests were arranged last week by County Agent Best on farms of cooperators of the Pickaway soil conservation district to demonstrate the profitability of heavier applications of plant food on corn this year though the residual effects on crops of succeeding years are to be recorded also. 840 lbs. per acre of 12-6-6 (a heavy nitrogen carrier) are to be plowed under and 300 lbs. of 3-12-12 are to be drilled in the row in one plot. A second plot will receive 300 lbs. 3-12-12 in the corn row and a third plot will receive 500 lbs. sulphate of ammonia plowed in and 300 lbs. of 3-12-12 in the row.

Glenn Hay in Walnut township will run one demonstration and W. H. Wilson in Wayne township is to handle the other.

Two important pasture fertilizer tests are to be started soon by Fred Corcoran near William sport and by Harold Hines in Walnut township on the C. T. Hay farm east of the Walnut school. Several fertilizer combinations will be tried on a variety of combinations of seedings which include alfalfa, bromegrass, Ladino clover, timothy and birdsfoot trefoil. The latter grass is a pasture legume little known in Pickaway county but a plant that has been highly regarded by many who have properly handled it in other parts of this section of Ohio.

Results of the pasture plots cannot be realized this year but in 1948 and thereafter the effects should prove very valuable. The corn fertilizer demonstrations will, of course, show this year.

Don Courtright, Ashville dairyman, is shifting from a short rotation to one of four years in the conservation farm plan he contemplates in cooperation with the Pickaway soil conservation district.

Ben Nothstein, Walnut township, filed with the P.S.C.D. for a postwar conservation plan to be prepared this spring covering his farm south and east of Ashville.

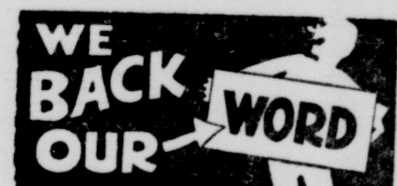

Many disappointing results with limestone use has been due to the acceptance by the farmer of material that isn't ground finely enough. Limestone breaks down very slowly and only the finely ground dust will do appreciable good within the next few years after spreading.

CONSERVANCY IS TO BE TOPIC AT DINNER - MEET

Topic selected for discussion at a forum and dinner meeting scheduled for 6:30 p. m. April 15 in the Seneca hotel at Columbus is the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District which embraces Pickaway county.

The forum will be under the auspices of the Franklin county chapter, Ohio Society of Professional Engineers, and invitations have been extended to Pickaway county public officials and other interested citizens to attend and to participate in the discussion. The Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District was formed under the 1934 Ohio conservancy act. Major purpose of the forum discussion is to determine a definite program for flood control, water conservation, and for other beneficial purposes. The 19 counties comprising the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District are: Pickaway, Crawford, Delaware, Fayette, Franklin, Highland, Madison, Marion, Morrow, Pike, Ross, Sandusky, Scioto, Seneca, Union, Vinton and Wyandot.

A. I. Pretzman, secretary of the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District, will be the forum moderator.

NEW KNOXVILLE, MIDDLETOWN IN TOURNEY WINS

East Liverpool, Findlay, Corning, Columbiana Seeking Finals

COLUMBUS, O., March 21 — East Liverpool and Findlay meet tonight in what may prove the most important game of the 1947 state high school Class A basketball tournament.

Winner of that high-voltage contest will qualify for a crack at Middletown's defending champions in the finals at the state fairgrounds coliseum tomorrow night.

Middletown — titlist in 1944 and last year and runner-up in 1945 — won its way into the finals for the fourth straight year as it turned back a fighting Ashtabula team, 36 to 31, last night.

IN TODAY'S Class B contest, the gauntlet was down between Columbiana and Corning.

Already advanced into the finals was a game New Knoxville quintet that barely outlasted Phillipsburg's driving yesterday, 51 to 49.

What Middletown showed — or failed to show — last night convinced many of the 5,464 spectators who saw the game that tonight's winner will probably go on to take the Middies' crown.

ASHTABULA very nearly eliminated the Middies last night. The underdog Panthers pulled into a three-point lead with five minutes to go, but a late Middletown drive pulled the game out of the fire in the last three and a half minutes.

It was a case of history repeating itself. The Middies, defeated six times in 16 regular season games, won four of their six district and regional tournament contests by one or two points.

Ashtabula's blanket-like man-for-man defense throttled the Middies last night, hurrying and harrying the champs all the way. It was superior height under the basket that finally downed Bob Ball's Panthers.

Bob Grimes, who made only six points all evening, fired the tying and winning baskets in rapid succession before going out on fouls with a minute and 44 seconds to go. A free throw by Bob Bush and a basket by Shelby Linville were so much gravy.

George McChesney's 15 points were high for the evening. Linville, INS all-state second team choice, finished with ten counters.

The defeat ended a gallant tourney record for Ashtabula, which lost seven regular season games.

TONIGHT'S battle plays the best pair of Class A records against each other. Findlay has won 21 and lost two. East Liverpool has taken 22 of 25 games.

While most experts seemed to lean toward the Potters, there was more than a suspicion that Findlay is being underrated. Carl Bachman's team hasn't lost a game since it dropped its fourth and fifth contests of the season to Xenia Central and Hamilton on successive nights.

NEW KNOXVILLE'S flu-weakened quintet needed a basket in the last 50 seconds to break a 49-all tie after Phillipsburg came from far in the rack.

The tall Rangers led 28-to-16 at halftime and 37-to-20 midway through the third period. Then Phillipsburg began to click and New Knoxville, with one regular out and three others just over the flu, weakened under the strain.

Perry Mayo and Lee Bohlender led an assault that tied the score with a minute and 35 seconds to go.

But Jack Kuck, brilliant New Knoxville center, broke it up with a last-minute jump shot.

Kuck, one of the Ranger flu victims, had 31 points all told. Bohlender corralled 21 for Phillipsburg.

The victory was Knoxville's 25th in 27 games. It was the third defeat against 25 wins for Phillipsburg.

CURRENT BASEBRAWL between New York Yankee President Larry MacPhail on one side and Leo Durocher and Branch Rickey, manager and president, respectively, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is believed to stem from this "incident" photographed at an exhibition game between Yanks and Dodgers in Havana, Cuba. Durocher charged MacPhail "entertained two known gamblers" in his box. MacPhail denied the gamblers in question were his guests and said they sat in another box. Photo shows MacPhail wearing sun glasses (left). Partially hidden by MacPhail's head is "Memphis" Engleberg (left arrow). At extreme right, over sharp corner of dugout is Connie Immerman. ## MANY SEATS ARE EMPTY AT STATE CAGE SESSIONS

COLUMBUS, O., March 21 — Ohio High School Athletic association's efforts to assure a seat for everyone at state tourney sessions resulted in a lot of empty places at both games yesterday.

The afternoon Class B contest between New Knoxville and Phillipsburg drew 2,203. The evening attendance for the Middletown-Ashtabula tussle was 5,464.

Figure filberts added those and found the two sessions drew approximately what the coliseum will hold at one sitting. The official capacity is 7,274.

OHIO STATE NINE SEEKS THIRD VICTORY IN SOUTH

FT. WORTH, TEX., March 21 — The barnstorming Ohio State baseball team was scheduled today to tackle Texas Christian at Ft. Worth in the first contest of a three-game series.

The Bucks got away to a two-and-one record yesterday on their first southern invasion since 1914 when they split a shortened double-header with Southern Methodist. Floyd Stahl's nine pounded two Mustang pitchers for 12 hits and 15 runs in the opener, while Pete Perini and Bob Christofel held the home team to six hits and two runs.

Christofel and George Spencer were not so effective in the five-and-a-half inning nightcap. The Bucks were limited to only two hits and lost, 5 to 1. OSU won the first game of the series, 10 to 0.

ASHVILLE MEETS BLUE RIBBON 5 IN CAGE FINALS

Robtown Eliminated 37-34 In City Industrial Loop Playoff

Ashville KP and Blue Ribbon Dairy will clash next week for the championship of the City Industrial basketball league.

Ashville qualified for the final round Thursday night by defeating Robtown Stock Farm 37-34 in a fast, close game.

Ashville jumped out in front 10-5 the first quarter, increased the lead to 20-11 at the half and 34-24 at the end of three quarters.

In the final period Ashville tried to stall and almost lost as a result. Several quick baskets by Robtown cut the final margin to only three points.

Eugene Wilson and Russ Gregg dividing scoring honors, Wilson had 12 for Ashville and Gregg 12 for Robtown. Gregg got most of his points in the closing minutes as Robtown rallied. Previous to that time "Red" Wilson had guarded Gregg closely and found time to score 11 points himself.

As the result of the victory Ashville will meet Blue Ribbon, first round winner.

In a preliminary to Thursday night's playoff game in Roll and Bowl, Farm Bureau defeated Linden Church of Christ in a game between two Columbus girls' teams. Lucille Redman, a Circleville girl, was high scorer. Score in the game was 9-9 at the half but Miss Redman paced a scoring rally by Farm Bureau that put the winners ahead to stay in the third period.

JACKSON CAGERS ARE HONORED AT PTS BANQUET

Professor H. R. Cotterman
Principal Speaker;
Letters Awarded

Defeat is always the test of strength, declared Prof. H. R. Cotterman of the Capital University, Columbus, in an address Friday night at the annual banquet for basketball players in the Jackson Township school.

The speaker's topic was "The Value of Athletics" and he enumerated the benefits derived from participation in athletic competition. He asserted that "you never really know a man until you see him in defeat".

Also featured on the program was Paul Leithart, Columbus, who entertained with feats of magic. Remarks by R. D. Shauck, Jackson school superintendent, and George D. McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway county schools, rounded out the program. Coach James Kirkpatrick was the toastmaster.

The meal was prepared and served by members of the Jackson Parent-Teacher Society.

Boys winning varsity awards included John Eitel, Norman Schooley, Robert Hulise, Dale Welsh, Gene Hoover, James Holbrook and Wayne Rhoades.

Reserve monograms went to Eugene Sparks, Donald Thacker, Glen Messmore, Ralph Hunt, Robert Eitel, Gerald Easter and Roger Martindale. Roy Hulise was awarded a letter for his managerial duties. Cheer leaders receiving awards included Vera Rhoades, Sue Easter, Rosemary Mace, Annetta Thomas and Velma Thomas.

FARMERS URGED TO PLANT MORE SOYBEANS HERE

Pickaway county farmers are urged by Chairman John G. Boggs of the county AAA committee to increase the 1947 production of soybeans, to plant about the same acreage of corn as in 1946, and to put in fewer oats than in 1946.

Larger quantities of soybeans are needed because of the continuing world-wide shortage of fats and oils, Chairman Boggs stated. Ohio goal for soybeans is approximately 20 per cent higher than the 1946 harvest.

Goals for soybeans, corn, and oats follow recommendations of the U. S. department of agriculture and the Ohio USDA council, Boggs said. The goals indicate the production needed to help meet the nation's requirements.

Although the 1946 production of soybeans was the largest on record, even larger production is required in 1947. Processing facilities have been expanded so that larger quantities can be crushed for oil and meal immediately after the harvest. Much of the increased capacity is of the solvent extraction type, which yields more oil per bushel of soybeans than by expeller or hydraulic press. The oil is used in both food and industrial products. Soybeans also are a valuable source of protein meal for livestock.

Currently the supply of soybean oil is below domestic and foreign requirements.

TRUCKER FINED

Harry L. Vassor, Portsmouth, was fined $25 and costs by Justice Harold O. Eveland, Wednesday night, on a charge of operating an overloaded truck on U. S. Route 23. Vassor had been taken into custody by State Highway Patrolman L. D. Ridgour.

YOUNG OFFICER NAMED TO HEAD OHIO DISTRICT

COLUMBUS, O., March 21 —

Lt. Col. Joseph C. Chedister has been named commanding officer of the Columbus recruiting district, and as such is responsible for Army recruiting in the state of Ohio, according to announcement made today by Headquarters, Second Army, Baltimore, Md. Col. Chedister replaced Lt. Col. W. R. Dayton, who has been transferred to the military personnel procurement division, at Second Army headquarters.

Col. Chedister, former Clarksville, Va., high school mathematics teacher is a native of Salem, W. Va. He joined the National Guard at Salem in 1928 and was called to active service in January 1941. Mid-summer of 1941 found him in the Aleutians with the 201st Infantry. He remained in the Aleutians until May 1944 when he returned to the states as a Lieutenant Colonel in charge of the 1st Battalion of the 159th Infantry. After a special training period the 1st Battalion embarked for the ETO where it proceeded through France and on to Romagen, Germany.

After V-E Day, Col. Chedister was in charge of a POW Camp at Buderich and later of another POW Camp at Koblenz, Germany. He returned to the United States in July 1945 and later was assigned to Army Recruiting Service, first at Indianapolis, then as Commanding Officer of the Louisville (Kentucky) Recruiting District. Col. Chedister holds a Captain's commission in the Regular Army.

ALL KINDS OF SHOWS

TURNSTILES ARE whirling. People are turning out by the tens of thousands for all kinds of shows. Convention halls and civic auditoriums, empty through the war years, have found the public flocking through their doors. Sports shows in various parts of the country have had crowds of would-be vacationists looking over guns, fishing tackle, boats, hammocks, tents, outdoor cooking and camping equipment. Flower shows, home building and equipment shows, all have been so well attended that there was difficulty in seeing the exhibits. Dog shows have had maximum entries and throngs of animal lovers as spectators. Attending such affairs is hard work. People must walk from exhibit to exhibit, battle crowds. Moreover, gate charges are not low—a dog show ticket may cost more than a dollar, flower shows a little less.

The American people, like Romans of old, like these exhibitions, all of which stem from the old time Roman circus. They are willing to work hard to get a look-in, and pay good money for the privilege.

WISHFUL THINKING

REMEMBER ALEXANDER Kerensky? He headed the Russian government before Lenin and the Bolsheviks took over. That was 30 years ago. Since then he has been living mostly abroad, though now he is in New York City. Despite his long absence from Russia, he has just given an interview predicting that the Soviet regime will fall within five years.

While most non-Russians would be delighted if this were true, it seems like a clear case of wishful thinking. A regime that has stood so long, won a major war and wound up as one of the two most powerful nations in the world is not likely to change its form of government, no matter how many hardships its people may be suffering. Only revolt by the army could bring this about; or after Stalin's death, a struggle between rival claimants to the succession. Either might happen, but Kerensky can hardly be sure.

THEY WANT CLEAN FUN

A CITY OF 35,000 population has many taverns, but no dance hall for young people where liquor is not sold. This is New Brunswick, N. J., the home of Rutgers University. The undergraduate newspaper has properly protested against the city's failure to provide recreation facilities for its youth.

How many other New Brunswicks are there? Cities and villages might well search to see if they are doing their duty by their sons and daughters. If not, they need not be surprised if the younger generation moves away at the first opportunity.

The J. P. Morgan estate, after federal and state taxes, came to only $4,642,000. On that meager amount he might almost have starved to death.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 21—(This is a continuation of the column on the confusing background of the Greek-Turkish issue.)

Both Democrats and Republicans in the government and in congress lack clarity also on the military aspects of the proposed Greek-Turkish relief of $400,000,000. The Republicans, for instance, are split. Few are against, but the split has developed between those in favor of following the Truman recommendation.

Foreign Chairmen Vandenberg and Eaton, for instance, want to rush approval without delay although they admit they cannot make the Truman March 31 deadlines. Behind their urgings apparently lies the old report that the Communist guerillas in Greece intend opening a Spring campaign, and the British are getting out March 31, so Greece might remain unprotected for a period. On the other side, Senator Taft wants to find out first what it means. He wants to know if it means we are going to finance and take over British empire commitments around the world, whether this will bring us to grips with Russia, and whether war will come from the grips. No attitude for the party as a whole has been proclaimed.

Behind the Taft policy, I suspect, is a desire to see what the Russians do in the Spring before we commit ourselves to what we will do.

This attitude is likely to have wide following in the congress before the fight is over, for this reason: Greece is rather far away. If we are going to fight Communism, or Russia, we have hardly picked the best spot for the fight. You will remember France and Britain guaranteed the independence of Poland and Czechoslovakia in treaties before the last war. They could not defend either commitment. They let Czechoslovakia go the Nazis and declared war when Poland was invaded, but even so they could do nothing to help Poland directly.

Both Greece and Turkey adjoin Russia (Greece through the Russian satellite Bulgaria.) If Russia wants to capture either, there is really not much we can do about it in a military way. The Russian army is strategically located to capture both.

So if the Truman policy is effected, the most it can mean is to let Russia know that if she invades either state or both, through subterfuge or otherwise, it will mean war with us. Thus we rather leave it in Russia's hands to determine whether or not there shall be a war. She can bring one on, and we cannot stop her.

Now Turkey was not mentioned much in this matter at the outset. Mr. Truman worked her in for the first time when he wrote his message to congress. The Turks have a good army for Turkey, but it is expensive. The question is whether we wish to commit ourselves to financing it from now on. We should have much surplus war material in Europe, particularly Germany, which would be of help to both Greece and Turkey. No one here seems to know or be inclined to say how much. There would be no objection to letting those nations have it which might use it in our interests. An American military mission to each country also seems a minimum requirement.

Congress might be able to pass a resolution or bill authorizing steps along this line without objection. But the question of grave financial commitments which might bleed us white in future months and years, could well await an exploratory debate which Taft demands.

FAR DIFFERENT RESULT
TAKING THE first trick, holding up on the second, and then taking the third—that is by no means your best possible protection against the run of a suit at No Trumps when you have two top-trick-takers in it. Holding up on the first trick, and thus being in position to take the second and third, can give you much greater safety in some cases. That is especially true when the partner of the long-suit holder has exactly two cards of the suit.

East opened his heart Q, despite South's having bid that suit. Seeing that he could take two tricks in it, North put in the dummy's K. Three tricks were in sight in spades, two each in the red suits, so that two in clubs would complete his contract. So he led the club 10 to the second trick. West won with the Q and led his heart 9. That proved to be the crucial action that beat the contract.

North held up on that second heart, which East over-played with the 10, then won the heart J lead with the A. Now his hearts were unprotected. When he next led a second club, West played low and East won with the A. He cashed his two established hearts, for the fifth trick by his side.

Note what would have occurred if North had held up on the first heart. When he won the second, West would have been out of the suit. Winning the first club lead, West probably would have returned a spade to the K. The second club would have gone to the A, whereupon East could have knocked out the last heart stop. But his own last entry would then have been gone. West could have won the third club lead, for his side's fourth trick, but North could have taken any return and run his game, with two clubs set up.

SYNOPSIS

Young Sherry Kent refuses to forego the pleasure of a weekend at the farm of Steve Jeffrey, beloved family friend, even though her mother, Leda, and sister, Val, have changed their plans about going. Leda, attractive widow and highly successful business woman, is dining with Roger Bedloe, vice-president of her firm, and Val with wealthy Wade Carrington, with whom she is trying to forget her heartbreak over the death in action of her fiancé, Rick Colby. Val is tormented by the knowledge that had it not been for Leda's opposition, she and Rick would have married before he went overseas. Alighting from the train at Brundage, Sherry spies Steve's station wagon parked nearby and climbs in to wait for him. To her surprise, attractive Lex Morrell, who introduces himself as Steve's hired man, takes the wheel. Lex had been in the brokerage business before the war, and upon his release from the Army had decided to get some practical experience before investing in a farm of his own. Warm-hearted, elderly Aunt Pen, who keeps house for Steve, greets Sherry joyously. Later, when Steve arrived, and all had consumed Aunt Pen's delicious dinner, a strange feeling of happiness stole over Sherry. She knew instantly her meeting with Lex was responsible. Her happiness is short lived, however, when Steve tells her Lex is engaged to be married. Lex was troubled, Steve added, because his fiancée was opposed to him buying a farm. During the night Sherry hears Lex pacing the floor and knocks on his door to invite him down to the kitchen for a snack. She tells him of her concern over Val, but is disappointed when he fails to confide his troubles to her. Meanwhile, at home Val phones Wade to pick her up at Susan Fyle's cocktail party. Despite the fact that he has been married and divorced several times, Wade has fallen deeply in love with Val, and following dinner, suggests his apartment as the proper setting for the question he wishes to ask her. Val, physically attracted to Wade, cynically reasons to herself that marriage to him might be fun... while it lasted.

CHAPTER TWELVE

WADE SAID, tucking Val's hand under his arm as they sat on the taxi's seat, "What are you smiling about?"

Val looked up into his eyes.

"Maybe—because I'm happy."

Wade considered a moment.

"Happy over something that has happened—or something that's going to happen?"

"Just happy," Val said, laying her cheek briefly against his shoulder. "No reasons."

It occurred to her that perhaps Wade's tone of tentativeness, of not quite certainty, as he gave the address of his apartment hadn't been due to a doubt of her reaction, but to some uneasiness in himself. If she was right, if Wade was on the verge of asking her to marry him, perhaps he wasn't quite convinced in his own mind of the wisdom of his course.

What was that old saying? A housekeeper they had had when Val was twelve or so used to be fond of quoting proverbs and some of them occasionally came back to Val. "A burned child dreads the fire"—that was it. And why shouldn't Wade be a "burned child" where marriage was concerned?

Val tried to recall what Susan had told her of his ex-wives. One, the first, had been a debutante, one of his own social circle in the north-shore suburb where the Carrington family home was. That had been when Wade was in his twenties. It had lasted only a couple of years.

Then there had been Irina Bordova, the dancer. Val had seen her last year when the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo was in town and she was lovely, sheer poetry in motion. But Susan, who had known Wade for years, said she had a horrible temper and that no man on earth could get along with her—she had had four husbands all told, before and after Wade. Then, only five years or so ago, Wade had married a young movie actress, Leigh Van Dine. Wade himself had told Val about that.

"My gosh, it was awful," he had said. "She used to get up at six o'clock in the morning. And if she stayed up later than nine at night it showed in her face the next day. We were married six months and she was dieting all that time—and dieting is very hard on the disposition. She was—still is, for that matter, a very beautiful dish, but she has the mind of a high-grade moron. And I hated Hollywood, and her friends bored me to death and she wouldn't consider giving up the movies. It was purgatory in technicolor, I assure you..."

Maybe, Val thought, he isn't considering marrying me at all—after his experiences, why should he want to marry again? Maybe—she groped wryly—I'm counting my chickens before they're hatched.

Well, she would know quite soon at any rate. Wade was paying off the taxi, was holding the door for Val, taking her across the deep-carpeted lobby to the elevators.

She was aware of her heart, beating rather fast, as the car slid silently upward. Wade's unobtrusive Filipino servant let them in. A slight brown shadow in his spotless white coat, seeming almost faceless in his anonymity, he took their wraps and faded away like a ripple on water.

Wade's apartment was tastefully masculine, with decorator touches that were obviously expensive. The rugs were deep; so were the chairs and couches. There was a fire in the fireplace and the heavy moss-green drapes were drawn across the windows. Val walked across to hold her cold finger tips toward the fire. Her mirrored face looked back at her from the glass wall above the mantel. She saw Wade's face there, too, turned toward her, the dark eyes ardent.

She looked away from the mirror and into Wade's face. Then his arms went around her and she felt their muscular hardness with a kind of exultation. Her eyelids closed as he kissed her. In the darkness of her mind, her thoughts whirled in a confused pattern. She was aware of her physical response to him, of the blood throbbing in her temples, of her arms going up and around Wade's neck, feeling

She looked away from the mirror and into Wade's face. Then his arms went around her and she felt their muscular hardness with a kind of exultation. Her eyelids closed as he kissed her. In the darkness of her mind, her thoughts whirled in a confused pattern. She was aware of her physical response to him, of the blood throbbing in her temples, of her arms going up and around Wade's neck, feeling the crisp short ends of hair on the back of his neck under her fingers. Forgetfulness was in his kiss—the emotion it aroused washed over the memory of Rick like a tide breaking over a stone. In time the stone would be worn smooth, with no sharp edges to hurt—it might even be gone.

After a time Wade's mouth came away from hers, but Val stood there, her eyes still closed, feeling his hands gripping her shoulders as though he couldn't let her go.

He said, his deep voice deeper than ever with feeling, "That's what I've been wanting all evening."

"I, too," Val murmured and knew that it was so. She opened her eyes then and her lips parted in a little smile.

Wade smiled, too, but his eyes were serious, more serious than Val could ever remember seeing them. He said, his voice oddly hesitant, "Val—I'm crazy about you. You know that, of course—I've been telling you so for weeks. And it's getting worse. I can't get you out of my mind—I don't even try to any more, although I'll admit I did at first. Frankly, darling, I didn't want to fall in love again—I hadn't the remotest intention of asking another woman to marry me. But—" his look was deep on Val's, probing, hopeful—"I find I have fallen in love. And I want very much to marry you—more, I think, than I ever wanted anything in my life before—"

So, there it was. Val didn't answer quickly, although she had been thinking things out for so long before he spoke, that her decision was almost formed. Presently she said, her voice low, but very steady, "I will marry you, Wade. It's what I want, too."

He held her close again, his arms more gentle this time, his lips just touching her hair. He said, "You're so sweet, Val—so lovely, so young. You make me—sorry for many things—"

Val said, "Don't be sorry for anything that's gone before—don't think about it, darling. Let's not think of the past at all—only each other. Let's just go on from here, from this moment." Her voice deepened with sudden confidence. "I think we can make each other very happy."

Wade's faint smile was wry. "If it weren't that you were a little kid in hairbuns at the time, I might wish we'd met fifteen years ago."

"But I was a little kid," Val said sensibly, "so why dwell on it? If we'd met even five years ago—even a year—we might not have been attracted to each other so much. Because we were different people then—and it's now we've fallen in love. And that's the way I want it."

Their lips met again in a long kiss.

When it was over, Wade said unsteadily, "And now I'm going to take you home—without even offering you a drink." He asked then, his voice almost humble, "You'll marry me soon, Val?"

She nodded. "Very soon..."

Today's Horoscope

If this is the anniversary of your birth, you are impetuous, persistent, and somewhat stubborn. You are kind and loving in your marital relations, and, if you cause any unhappiness by your impatience, you are quick to make amends. You are a leader, sincere in all things, and with all people. The day's influences are doubtful in connection with finances and also possessions. Good and ill fortune are portended for you. A legacy and/or gain through property or law is probable, but beware of accidents through fire, electricity, scalds or firearms. Defer changes. Today's child will be financially fortunate, but liable to accidents and sudden illnesses. Extra care will need to be exercised when near fire, water, electricity and explosives.

STARS SAY—

For Friday, March 21

ALTHOUGH the day starts off with zest and enthusiasm, with a practical and progressive attack on matters of major importance, probably concerning new deals, associations or propositions, a deviation from practical plans and programs might result in a sudden and unforeseen crash of devastating and revolutionary significance. An impetuous move, a too eager desire to make changes or improvements, is likely to wreck all foundations established. The mentality might be obscured, confused or easily swayed.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is have promise of a year of splendid creative work, with energies and initiative keyed to important moves of a new and progressive objective, yet there is a sign of a ambition overleaping itself, either through a confused mental outlook, or an emotional or impulsive stress and strain in the way of change, revision or improvement. This will result in havoc, disruption and disintegration of sound ideas and well-established premises. Hold fast to the realistic and concrete.

A child born on this day is well equipped for a sound and active career, of progress and accomplishment, but erratic or reckless desire for change might prove its undoing.

Penicillin Found Helpful In Treating Eye Infection

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MANY of the germs which cause external eye infections can be stopped by the use of penicillin. This is fortunate indeed because it gives us a quick and sure weapon against many disorders of this important organ.

The most common external eye infections in children are blepharitis which is an inflammation of the edge of the eyelids, conjunctivitis or inflammation of the lining membrane over the eyeball and infections of the tear sac.

It has been shown that the germs most often responsible are staphylococci, pneumococci, and the Morax-Axenfeld bacillus. In most cases staphylococci are the chief offenders.

Treated With Penicillin

According to Dr. Joseph Minton of England, these various conditions can be successfully treated with penicillin drops or ointment. He has found that blepharitis clears up quickly with penicillin ointment. However, there is a tendency for it to recur when treatment is stopped. Hence, he suggests that even after the inflammation along the edge of the lids has cleared, the penicillin ointment be applied to the lids as a preventive twice a week for several weeks.

He has also found that conjunctivitis in infants and children clears up within a few days when treated with penicillin. He suggests that the parent be given a solution of penicillin in a bottle with a fitted dropper. The penicillin drops are put into the eye four times a day.

In tear sac infections penicillin drops also were used. In most cases this cleared up the eye inflammation and the discharge from the tear sac within a week's treatment. In many cases the eye continued to water even after the penicillin treatment. If this continued for three weeks it was necessary to pass a tiny instrument known as a probe into the tear sac. This, as a rule, resulted in a cure of the condition.

The same sort of treatment was successful for blepharitis and conjunctivitis in adults. It was noted in some cases that redness and swelling of the skin of the lids occurred in some of the patients who used the penicillin eye drops and ointment. This was found to be due to sensitivity or allergy to the penicillin and cleared up promptly when the use of the penicillin was discontinued.

Nova Scotia exported to New England large quantities of potatoes at one time. One variety, which was bluish in color at one end, were called bluenoses, and the nickname eventually was applied to the people who raised them.

Federal Sales Tax Possible As Debt Reduction Measure | American Legion in Drive To Protect GIs' Benefits

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Talk of a federal sales tax is being heard on Capitol Hill.

Senator George A. Wilson (R), Iowa, thinks such a levy is coming and says he might vote for it as a debt reduction measure.

The Iowan, who sees tax problems both as a senator and former governor, warns of one big obstacle to a federal sales tax—it would cut into a revenue source already tapped by some states.

As a matter of fact, Wilson explains, federal excise levies already are a breach in the sales tax field.

He believes the states and the federal government ought to get together, stake out their respective fields of revenue, and stay within them. Wilson suggests that the United States Conference of Governors take the initiative on the idea.

Real estate taxes are earmarked for the states and local communities, but virtually everything else is wide open to local, state and federal tax competition, Wilson pointed out.

He added that some "collective bargaining" between various governmental units on tax problems can avert future headaches.

THE AMERICAN LEGION is spearheading an all-out drive by veterans' organizations against bills now pending in Congress to weaken employment preferences and other benefits to ex-GIs.

No less than 36 bills now pending in Congress seek, according to the Legion, "to circumvent in one way or another the employment protection afforded to veterans."

Program For Chorus Concert Is Announced

Portsmouth Singers To Be Heard Here Tuesday Night

Business and Professional Women's club members will present the Portsmouth Male chorus at the Circleville high school auditorium, Tuesday March 25 at 8:15 p. m.

Chorus is composed of prominent Portsmouth business and professional men who have made music their avocation. Their vocal selections have been very well received on many occasions in cities in the southern part of Ohio. They broadcast for several years on a coast-to-coast hook-up. Music lovers of the community are being offered an evening of entertainment here at home, that has not often been an opportunity of Circleville and Pickaway county residents.

Willis Warner, baritone soloist with the group is a graduate of Circleville high school; a brother of Mrs. Blanche Glick, route 3, and Mrs. Herbert Snyder, Kingston, and the son of former Sheriff and Mrs. William H. Warner, East High street.

Tickets for the concert may be secured from any member of the B and P Woman's club, Hott's music store, or at the door, night of the concert.

The following selections will be presented by the chorus, "A Choral Prelude" by Homier; "On the Sea" by Buck; "In a Persian Market" by Kettelbey; "Stout Hearted Men" by Romberg; "The Lost Chord" by Sullivan; "Gloria in Excelsis" (12th Mass) by Mozart; "The Holy City" by Adams; "The Creation" by Richter; "The Rosary" by Nevin; "O! Man River" by Kern; "Anvil Chorus" by Verdi; "Dance, My Comrades" by Bennett and "Song of the Jolly Roger" by Candish.

Quartet composed of Ralph Kerns, Elza Cook, William Mercer and Theodore Olson will present, "Asleep in the Deep" by Petrie and "Lucky Jim" by Parks. Elza Cook, pianist will play "Polonaise" in a flat major by Chopin and Mr. Warner will sing, "Song of the Toreador" by Bizet.

Pythian Sisters Meet In Castle

Members of the Pythian sisters held their regular meeting Thursday evening in Pythian Castle with Mrs. Minnie Newton in charge. Plans were made for a benefit card party to be held in conjunction with the Knights of Pythias on Wednesday April 16.

After a short business session, Mrs. Johnnie Lee Jacoby, Westerville district deputy grand chief, conducted a school of instructions. Mrs. Anna Dye, past grand guard, and Mrs. Edith Spidel, Westerville grand senior, were guests. Sixty-five members and guests were present from Westerville, Newark, Reynoldsburg, Chillicothe, Columbus, Adelphi, Amanda, Ashville, Canal Winchester and Stoutsville. Next meeting will be Thursday April 17.

AID TO MEET

1946 Elections Cost Ohioans More Than Three Million Dollars

COUNTY COSTS SET AT $9,732 BY SECRETARY

Hummel Report On Election Costs Last Year Shows $3,039,563 Spent

Cost of the 1946 elections in Pickaway county was $9,732. The figure is part of a total for the entire state of more than three million dollars, it was stated Friday by Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel.

All but "a few thousand dollars" came from the 88 counties, which bear the brunt of election costs, Secretary Hummel said. He placed the counties' election expenses at $3,039,563, including $2,189,662 for personal services. A total of $849,901 went for printing, equipment and miscellaneous expenses.

Hummel's own office gets off lightly, he reported. The only state costs are the few sample ballots printed and extra help and telephone service on election night. This Hummel placed at "less than $2,000."

Precinct judges and clerks received a major share of the personnel funds, getting $489,000 at the primary and $499,000 at the general election. Special elections added $29,000 to the total.

Personnel of elections boards received $1,055,364, split $265,663 to the board members themselves, $101,656 for clerks, $77,341 for deputy clerks, $367,489 for assistant clerks, and $243,213 for part-time employees.

Ballot printing costs amounted to $95,827 for the primary, $143,772 for the November election, and $14,065 for special elections.

Rent of polling places was the next biggest non-personnel item, amounting to $127,133. Precinct registration lists cost $63,812.

Since the number of voters casting ballots at the November election totaled 2,343,862, it might be figured that the voting cost per voting Ohioan for the year was slightly in excess of a dollar and a quarter.

Populous Cuyahoga county, of course, led all counties in total costs with $675,163, while Morgan county spent only $4,505.

HOME REPAIR IN COUNTY MEANS BIG JOB IN 1947

Pickaway County's non-farm home owners will spend an estimated $623,000 on repair and modernization work during 1947.

At least a third and probably more than half of all dwellings in the county will be improved or repaired this year, according to estimates released by the Title Council of America. "Increased supplies of building materials and easing of restrictions should make possible a record volume of home modernization throughout the county," said F. B. Ortmann, chairman of the Council's residential construction committee.

The county's 6,351 single-family homes will account for most expenditures, the study revealed. Painting is the most often wanted improvement, with about a third of all owners planning to redecorate home exteriors or some room of the interior. About 10 per cent of all dwellings need new roofs or roofing repairs, and large numbers will have waterpipes repaired, bathrooms tiled or showers installed during the year, according to the report.

As evidence of the increase in building supplies, Ortmann pointed out that floor and wall tile volume is expected to hit an all-time high this year. "Stepped-up production of materials means that the construction industry can both build record

PIANO FOR SERVICES AT HOME, HOSPITAL NEEDED

Members of the Pickaway County Ministerial association are looking for a piano to be used in services at the Home and Hospital.

Anyone having a piano, which he would like to donate, is asked to contact the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren church, president of the ministerial association.

Ministers have been conducting services at the Home and Hospital regularly but are handicapped by lack of any musical instrument to furnish accompaniment for singing.

GRILL BURGLARIZED

Thieves who burglarized the B. and F. Grill at South Bloom-

field were being sought Thursday by the Pickaway county sheriff's department. The burglary occurred some time Tuesday night and was reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday. Deputy Vern L. Pontious, who investigated, said the loot included two cartons of cigarettes, a card of finger-nail clippers, and 105 pennies. Entrance was gained by cutting the glass from a side window.

House Committee Votes For 30 Pct. Income Tax Cut

BIG REDUCTION IN LOW INCOME GROUP FAVORED

Proposed Cuts Expected To Be Passed By House Next Week

WASHINGTON, March 21 — The house ways and means committee today approved a tax reduction bill giving a 30 per cent income tax slash to 20 million low-income taxpayers and a 20 per cent cut to an additional 28 million persons.

The committee vote of 16 to 9 was divided along party lines, with one unnamed Democrat voting with the 15 Republicans for the bill.

The measure, which will cost the government an estimated $3,886,000,000 in revenue, now goes to the house for passage.

REP. KNUTSON (R) Minn., ways and means committee chairman, said GOP leaders plan to call the bill up in the house next Wednesday. Passage is expected Thursday.

Knutson and other committee Republicans will go before the rules committee Tuesday and ask for a closed rule which is expected to result in house approval of the bill without amendment.

GOP chiefs will attempt to line up the house Republican membership behind the bill at a special conference Monday.

The measure, as approved by the committee, would give taxpayers having not more than $1,000 of taxable income, a 30 per cent cut in personal income taxes.

Taxpayers having more than $1,000, and up to $303,000 of taxable income would receive a 20 per cent reduction.

On income of individuals above $303,000, a 10 per cent reduction would apply.

THE BILL contains "notch" provisions smoothing the transition from a 30 per cent reduction to a 20 per cent cut for taxpayers in the lower brackets.

This provision is a graduated decline in the percentage tax cut. Under it, taxpayers receiving up to $1,000 taxable income, would receive a maximum reduction of 37 in their income taxes. This would be the cut for all taxpayers having up to $1,395 taxable income.

By Walter Kiernan

Those who worry about the secret agreement of Yalta should turn to the books of Elliott for comfort.

"At Yalta, once again," he wrote, "there was unanimity and the flesh was put on the skeleton of the post war world."

Looking at the skeleton it appears that more flesh was put on some places than others — but none of those there ever had patched a skeleton before.

Conciliation Service Pay Is Cut Off

WASHINGTON, March 21 — The house appropriations committee today cut off the salaries of 100 officials and employees of the U. S. conciliation service, including its director, Edgar L. Warren, and demanded their dismissal.

The committee's action, if upheld by congress, would become effective July 1.

The committee denounced Warren as unfit for his post, accused him of having been a member of Communist organizations, and charged that he was guilty of "loose handling of public funds."

The powerful group said the other employees were not needed and charged that the conciliation service "has been loaded" (Continued on Page Two)

Government Says UN Group 'Scandalously Biased' Against Country

SALONIKA, Greece, March 21 — The Greek government blew the tops off its smoldering feud with the United Nations Balkans commission today by dispatching a letter protesting that the group is "scandalously biased" against Greece.

The letter was addressed to the commission on the eve of its departure from Salonika to Sofia, Bulgaria. It was signed by Alexis Kyrou, Greek liaison officer.

The letter charged that the commission's press officer, Stanley Ryan, had sent to the U. N. security council by cable incorrect reports on the "Markos incident" and other acts against the Greek government.

The "Markos incident" referred to the attempt of U. N. commission members to interview guerrilla leader General Markos inside rebel-dominated territory in northern Greece.

MRS. MARSHALL ONE OF NATION'S 'BEST DRESSED'

NEW YORK, March 21—Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the secretary of state, today was judged "the best dressed woman of the year in public life" by the New York Fashion Academy.

Last year's winner in this particular category was Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas, a member of the American delegation to the United Nations.

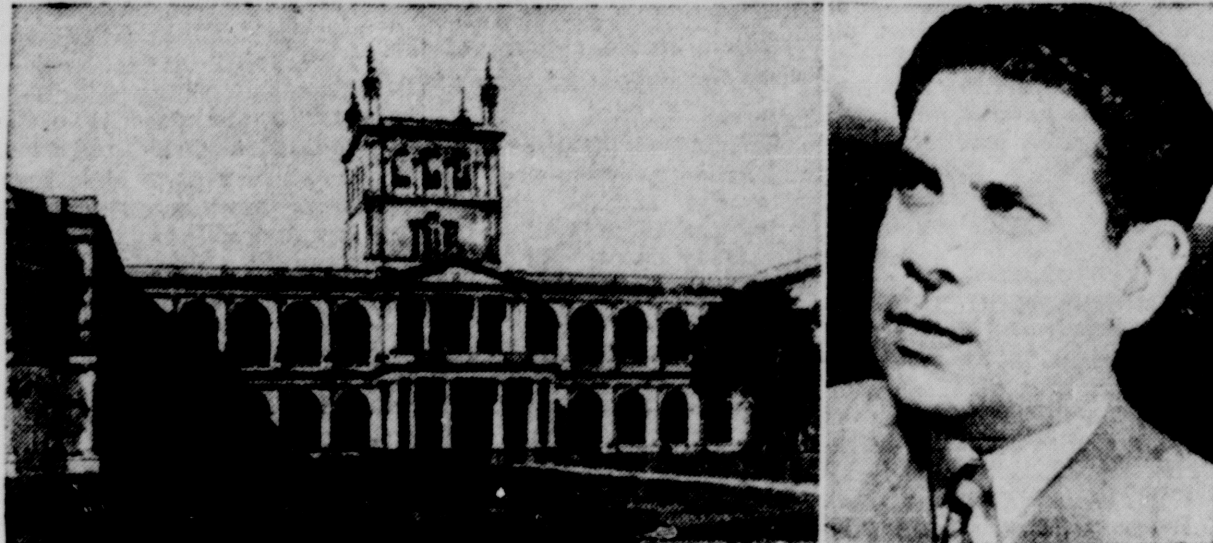

The academy lauded Mrs. Marshall for her "intelligent selectivity of the correct gown for the important functions where protocol is the rule."

Other winners in their respective fields were:

Kay Francis, stage; Maggi McNellis, radio; Joan Barton, supper clubs; Patricia Travers, concert; Doris Duke, society.

Louise Albritton, screen; Mrs. Jerome K. Ohrbach, "young matron"; Rise Stevens, opera; Mrs. Leon Mandel, "international set"; Lorraine Dresselhuys, debutante; Vivien Kellems, business; and Mrs. Walter Thornton, fashion promotion.

Potato Crop To Be Cut By American Farmers

WASHINGTON, March 21 — The American farmer, determined to prevent a repetition of last year's huge potato surplus, plans to cut 1947 potato acreage to the smallest since 1884.

An agriculture department survey of prospective plantings showed today that present plans call for 2,310,000 acres of potatoes in 1947, compared to 2,625,000 acres in 1946 and a 1936-45 average of 2,945,000.

Decision to cut production was blamed on difficulties in marketing the record-high 1946 crop and to a "long-time downward trend" in potato acreage.

Plantings are expected to be less than 1946 in all states except Indiana and South Carolina. In Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa they are expected to be only about one-half of the 1936-45 average.

If the farmers stick to their stated plans, a national potato crop of 355 million bushels will be produced, based upon the average yield for 1946-46. Such production would be 25 per cent under the 1946 record high of 474,610,000 bushels.

However, if the tremendous 1946 yield of 181 bushels per acre is duplicated, the 1947 crop will amount to 418 million bushels.

TURKISH HELP SAID NECESSARY

Solon Claims Aid Would Block Russia Taking Over Dardanelles

WASHINGTON, March 21—Acting Secretary of State Acheson warned congress today that if President Truman's Greco-Turkish aid plan is rejected the Greek government would collapse "tomorrow" and a communist would take over in Athens.

Acheson told the house foreign affairs committee that he agreed with Rep. Judd (R) Minn., who said it would be dangerous to the security of the United States if a Communist government were set up in Greece or Turkey.

WASHINGTON, March 21 — Rep. Mundt (R) S. D., declared today that American aid to Turkey is needed to help prevent Russia from taking over the Dardanelles.

Mundt made his assertion as the house foreign affairs committee resumed hearings on President Truman's 400 million (Continued on Page Two)

BRITISH PLAN OF GOVERNMENT FOR GERMANY UP

Bidault Believes His Speech Will Not Cause Trouble At Moscow Confab

MOSCOW, March 21 — A British plan for establishing a federalized Germany, with a central government for foreign affairs and economic matters was submitted today to the council of foreign ministers.

The plan submitted at this afternoon's council session by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin recommended that Germany's political structure should have for its core a two-chamber legislature, a president, and a supreme court.

POLICE and other vital political powers would be vested in "laenders" (states) under the British plan.

Of the two chambers proposed, one would represent the nation as a whole while the other represents the laenders.

Bevin declared that, under his plan:

"Rights and duties of the president should be limited to those exercised by the constitutional head of a state without independent executive authority."

"The chamber representing the nation as a whole should be popularly elected and should be responsible for initiating central legislation and passing it."

"The chamber representing the laender should be elected on the basis of equal representation for each laender. It shall have powers of absolute veto on constitutional matters and a suspensory veto on other legislation."

'FRIENDLY' GAME OF POKER HALTED BY POLICE RAID

Robert Pickens, 37, Watt street, was arrested at 3:10 a. m. Friday when Patrolmen Turney Ross and John W. McGinnis raided an alleged gambling place at 117 1/2 South Court street.

Pickens was released under $50 bond and Police Chief William F. McCrady said the two patrolmen would file a gambling affidavit against Pickens Friday afternoon.

Chief McCrady said Patrolmen Ross and McGinnis reported that the door was unlocked and they walked in, found "five or six men" playing a "friendly" game of poker, and the officers arrested Pickens and seized the money and cards from the table.

The players were enjoying a lunch at the time of the raid, Chief McCrady said, adding that the patrolmen reported that the cash in front of the players ranged from 75 cents to $8.

Chief McCrady said he did not know the names of the players and that, presumably, Pickens was taken into custody as the operator of the game.

CLUES, MOTIVE SOUGHT IN GREENFIELD MURDER

GREENFIELD, O., March 21 —Clues, motive and killer were sought today by Highland county authorities as they probed the bludgeon death of Leroy Woodland, 74.

Woodland was found under a mattress in a bedroom of his home at nearby Higginsville. He died shortly afterwards of a skull fracture.

Questioning of relatives and of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Yankee, roomers in Woodland's home, failed to produce any lead to the slaying.

Exodus Of Teachers Is Feared

MARTINS FERRY, O., March 21 — An eastern Ohio educator forecast today an exodus of Buckeye teachers to neighboring West Virginia unless Ohio at least matches that state's newly increased salaries.

C. A. Taylor, superintendent of Martins Ferry schools, issued the warning that "hundreds" of Ohio teachers might cross the river for more lucrative jobs in West Virginia. He said:

"I fear that thousands of Ohio children will lose their teachers at the end of the school year because of the recent action of the West Virginia legislature, increasing state school aid by 66 per cent."

Taylor recommended that the Ohio legislature act to establish a minimum annual salary of $2,000 for teachers holding college degrees.

10 SCHOOLS IN COUNTY CLOSED

Ashville Classes Dismissed As Flu Epidemic Hits More Students

BULLETIN
Illness of students and teachers caused the closing of the Pickaway Township school Friday noon. School officials said they hoped to reopen the school Monday.

Closing of the Ashville-Harrison High and elementary school at Ashville had increased to 10, Friday, the total of schools closed in Circleville and Pickaway county as a consequence of the state-wide epidemic of colds and influenza. The city and county has a total of 20 schools.

As a result of the forced closing of 50 per cent of the schools more than 2,000 boys and girls were away from their classes.

CIRCLEVILLE's one high and four elementary schools are scheduled to reopen Monday morning.

George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools, announced he did not know when the rural schools will be reopened. The closed rural schools include Scioto township high and elementary, Darbyville elementary, and the Duval and South Bloomfield elementary schools.

THE INFLUENZA epidemic lashed out at more communities today.

Suburban Strongsville schools closed yesterday, the first to do so in Cuyahoga county, after substitutes could not be found for several striken teachers. Total enrollment is approximately 500.

BRITISH ARREST ALLEGED LEADER OF UNDERGROUND

JERUSALEM, March 21—Unconfirmed reports circulating in Jerusalem today said that British authorities in Palestine had arrested the leader of the militant Irgun Zvai Leumi organization and several other key men believed responsible for Holy Land violence.

The report which could not be substantiated immediately in any official quarter said the arrests were made yesterday.

The leader of the Irgun group reported to have been arrested was said to be known as "Avi-noam".

He was said to have been taken into custody in the Gushat quarter, a district recently under British martial law.

'STICKUP' MEN FAIL IN EFFORT TO GET MONEY

Trio Captured 40 Minutes After Being Frightened From Village Bank

Three youthful bandits who staged an attempted holdup of the First National bank at New Holland, 17 miles west of Circleville, were captured without resistance 40 minutes later by police at London.

London police said the prisoners have the following names: Charles Maley, 23, Donald Neff, 17, and Carson Rice, 18, all of Springfield.

No money was obtained in the holdup. Robert Kirkpatrick, assistant cashier of the bank said two entered the bank and the third remained in the trio's blue 1942 Ford sedan.

KIRKPATRICK said the two produced nickel-plated revolvers and announced "This is a hold-up — where is the money." John Dick, cashier, and Kirkpatrick were counting money on a table, while George Kirk, bank president, was at the teller's window.

Two or three times the hold-up men repeated "There is the money?" and Kirk told them there was no money. Just at this point Dick slipped out the back door to seek help. The rear door slammed shut. This frightened the two robbers who fled to their automobile and the three would-be holdup men raced east on U. S. Route 22 toward Circleville.

Kirkpatrick said that the two men who entered the bank appeared amateurish and nervous and that the cylinder dropped (Continued on Page Two)

THOMPSON IN QUANDARY OVER 'WHITE PRIMARY'

ATLANTA, GA., March 21 — M. E. Thompson faced his first crucial test as acting governor of Georgia today as he ponders a course of action to "insure" white primary elections for the state Democratic party.

The white primary bill, already has been passed by the general assembly. But it bears the signature of Herman Talmadge whose election was ruled illegal by the supreme court and whose two-month "administration" was nullified by a legal opinion from the state's attorney general.

The bill, therefore, will not become law unless it is signed by Governor Thompson.

Should Thompson affix his signature to the bill, he will do so after branding it in his "inauguration" address yesterday as "a measure that would strike out every primary election law from the statutes of our state and allow fraud and stolen elections to run rampant in Georgia."

SOVIET CITIZENS BARRED FROM MARRYING ALIENS

LONDON, March 21 — From now on, no Soviet citizen can marry a foreigner.

At least, so said a Reuters dispatch from Moscow today.

It stated that a decree of the presidium of the Supreme Soviet published by the "Gazette of the Supreme Soviet" had placed a ban on marriages between Soviet citizens and aliens.

RUSSIANS SEIZE STUDENTS

LONDON, March 21—A Berlin dispatch to the London-Daily Telegraph said today that Russian plainclothes agents are seizing and removing considerable numbers of university students in the Soviet held zone of Germany. The wave of disappearances was said to have deeply perturbed American, British, and French officials in Germany.

Rain, Snow, Cold Greet Spring In Circleville

Miss Spring arrived in the Circleville area at 6:13 a. m. Friday chilled by a 35-degree temperature and carrying an umbrella for protection against a misting rain.

The arrival at 6:13 was the precise moment of what astronomers term the vernal equinox, meaning that the sun crossed the imaginary line known as the equator.

By 8 a. m. the mercury registered 36 degrees and it had climbed to 41 degrees by 11 a. m., with a drizzle of rain falling intermittently. Interspersed during the morning hours were scattered snowflakes.

The official weather prediction was for some light snow Friday and Friday night with Saturday's forecast clearing with moderate temperatures.

On the first day of Spring, according to the weatherman, rain or snow fell over the entire state of Ohio. The ceiling was dark and low. In many sections of the state auto headlights were still on at 10 a. m. Visibility was about the end of one's nose. The low temperature readings throughout Ohio ranged from 23 to 37 degrees and the high range was 40 to 50 degrees.

MURDER THEORY IS CHECKED IN POISON DEATHS

Parents Believe U. S. Officer Found Dead In Japan Was Murdered

TOKYO, March 21 — U. S. Army agents maintained unusual secrecy today in their continuing investigation of the strange poison deaths of Lt. Robert L. Wilson and Kiyoko Takodo, a beautiful Japanese girl.

Wilson, whose home was in Plymouth, Mass., and Miss Takodo were found dead March 14 in a small hotel near Tokyo, apparently the victims of a love-suicide pact.

Preliminary medical examination disclosed that both had swallowed lethal poisons of a poison noted for its swift action.

Despite Army secrecy, International News Service learned that fifth air force agents are not satisfied with the theory that the American airman and the Japanese girl died together because they would soon part, perhaps forever.

A possibility that Wilson was murdered has entered the investigation and exhaustive medical and crime laboratory tests are being conducted to explore every angle of the murder theory. Post-mortem examinations of both bodies are expected to require another four days to complete.

INVESTIGATORS were inclined to doubt the suicide theory because Wilson had never betrayed the slightest indication of despondency in any of his relations with fellow officers.

(This doubt was bolstered by Wilson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson of Plymouth, and by Miss Theresa Klassen of Charles City, Ia.)

Mrs. Wilson declared, "My boy was murdered," and added that "every one of his letters made it plain he looked forward happily to the day he would marry Miss Klassen."

(Miss Klassen revealed that she received a letter from Wilson only last Tuesday. She said he had asked her to look around for a house, that he hoped to be out of the Army by April 25, and that they would be married when he returned home. "I can't believe it," she sobbed.)

DRAFT LEADER PREDICTS WAR WITHOUT NOTICE

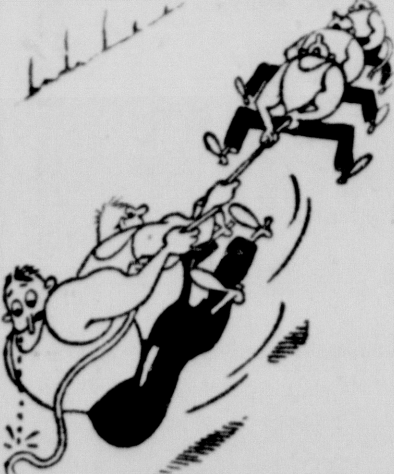

WASHINGTON, March 21 — Brig. Gen. Ames T. Brown, New York state selective service chief, declared today that without the present draft machinery it would take six months for the United States to build up an effective fighting force in the event of a sudden war.

Brown made his prediction at the start of a meeting of state selective service directors called to Washington to consider problems resulting from the expiration of the draft act on March 31.

He agreed with military experts that the next war probably will start without warning, that the United States would be the first target, and the outcome might be determined almost at the outset.

According to ancient myths, a dragon guarded the well of Ares. Cadmus slew the dragon and sowed some of the teeth from which sprang the race of Spartans.

VERY SNOOTY is this little pig who, having gone to market, believes he can bring home his own bacon. ## KENNEY PAINTS ATOMIC BOMB BLAST PICTURE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 21—Here's what would happen if an atom bomb were dropped in Times Square, New York, as told by Gen. George C. Kenney, chief of the strategic air command:

"Imagine that bomb exploding in Times Square and picking up a section of Manhattan island a half mile in diameter, throwing it a mile high and then having the pieces rain down over an area three or four miles from Times Square."

Kenney said that in that half-mile diameter circle there are about 100,000 people, adding:

"It is inconceivable that any of them could survive. This is no theoretical dream—this picture is real. We are really speculating on the effect of a bomb dropping in the Hudson or East river and deluging this whole area with radio-active water and steam."

HEETER TRIAL SLATED TO START NEXT MONDAY

Glenn Heeter, 22, Route 2, Ashville, will go on trial Monday before a jury in Pickaway county common pleas court in Cincinnati for automobile theft. It was stated Thursday by County Prosecutor Kenneth Robbins.

Heeter was indicted several weeks ago by the grand jury. He pleaded not guilty before Judge William D. Radcliff. Notifications were mailed Thursday by Clerk of Courts Arthur L. Wilder to a panel of 25 potential jurors.

Heeter is accused of stealing a pickup truck owned by the Ohio Fuel Gas company. The truck was stolen early on the morning of Jan. 14 from in front of the home of Frank Marion, 307 East Franklin street, gas company service man. Heeter was subsequently arrested at Chillicothe. He is not the Glenn Heeter who is employed by the Ohio Fuel Gas company.

Soil Conservation Notes

By J. A. Muster

Four fertilizer tests were arranged last week by County Agent Best on farms of cooperators of the Pickaway soil conservation district to demonstrate the profitability of heavier applications of plant food on corn this year though the residual effects on crops of succeeding years are to be recorded also. 840 lbs. per acre of 12-6-6 (a heavy nitrogen carrier) are to be plowed under and 300 lbs. of 3-12-12 are to be drilled in the row in one plot. A second plot will receive 300 lbs. 3-12-12 in the corn row and a third plot will receive 500 lbs. sulphate of ammonia plowed in and 300 lbs. of 3-12-12 in the row.

Glen Hay in Walnut township will run one demonstration and W. H. Wilson in Wayne township is to handle the other.

Two important pasture fertilizer tests are to be started soon by Fred Corcoran near Williamstown and by Harold Hines in Walnut township on the C. T. Hay farm east of the Walnut school. Several fertilizer combinations will be tried on a variety of combinations of seedings which include alfalfa, bromegrass, Ladino clover, timothy and birdsfoot trefoil. The latter grass is a pasture legume little known in Pickaway county but a plant that has been highly regarded by many who have properly handled it in other parts of this section of Ohio.

Results of the pasture plots cannot be realized this year but in 1948 and thereafter the effects should prove very valuable. The corn fertilizer demonstrations will, of course, show this year.

Don Courtright, Ashville dairyman, is shifting from a short rotation to one of four years in the conservation farm plan he contemplates in cooperation with the Pickaway soil conservation district.

Ben Nothstein, Walnut township, filed with the P.S.C.D. for a postwar conservation plan to be prepared this spring covering his farm south and east of Ashville.

Many disappointing results with limestone use has been due to the acceptance by the farmer of material that isn't ground finely enough. Limestone breaks down very slowly and only the finely ground dust will do appreciable good within the next few years after spreading.

CONSERVANCY IS TO BE TOPIC AT DINNER-MEET

Topic selected for discussion at a forum and dinner meeting scheduled for 6:30 p. m. April 15 in the Seneca hotel at Columbus is the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District which embraces Pickaway county.

The forum will be under the auspices of the Franklin county chapter, Ohio Society of Professional Engineers, and invitations have been extended to Pickaway county public officials and other interested citizens to attend and to participate in the discussion. The Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District was formed under the 1934 Ohio conservancy act.

Major purpose of the forum discussion is to determine a definite program for flood control, water conservation, and for other beneficial purposes. The 17 counties comprising the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District are: Pickaway, Crawford, Delaware, Fayette, Franklin, Highland, Madison, Marion, Morrow, Pike, Ross, Sandusky, Scioto, Seneca, Union, Vinton and Wyandot.

A. I. Pretzman, secretary of the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District, will be the forum moderator.

NEW KNOXVILLE, MIDDLETOWN IN TOURNEY WINS

East Liverpool, Findlay, Corning, Columbiana Seeking Finals

COLUMBUS, O., March 21 — East Liverpool and Findlay meet tonight in what may prove the most important game of the 1947 state high school Class A basketball tournament.

Winner of that high-voltage contest will qualify for a crack at Middletown's defending champions in the finals at the state fairgrounds coliseum tomorrow night.

Middletown — titlist in 1944 and last year and runner-up in 1945 — won its way into the finals for the fourth straight year as it turned back a fighting Ashtabula team, 36 to 31, last night.

IN TODAY'S Class B contest, the gauntlet was down between Columbiana and Corning.

Already advanced into the finals was a game New Knoxville quintet that barely outlasted Phillipsburg's driving finish yesterday, 51 to 49.

What Middletown showed — or failed to show — last night convinced many of the 5,464 spectators who saw the game that tonight's winner will probably go on to take the Middies' crown.

ASHTABULA very nearly eliminated the Middies last night. The underdog Panthers pulled into a three-point lead with five minutes to go, but a late Middletown drive pulled the game out of the fire in the last three and a half minutes.

It was a case of history repeating itself. The Middies, defeated six times in 16 regular season games, won four of their six district and regional tournament contests by one or two points.

Ashtabula's blanket-like man-for-man defense throttled the Middies last night, hurrying and harrying the champs all the way. It was superior height under the basket that finally downed Bob Ball's Panthers.

Bob Grimes, who made only six points all evening, fired the tying and winning baskets in rapid succession before going out on fouls with a minute and 44 seconds to go. A free throw by Bob Bush and a basket by Shelby Linville were so much gravy.

George McChesney's 15 points were high for the evening. Linville, INS all-state second team choice, finished with ten counters.

The defeat ended a gallant tourney record for Ashtabula, which lost seven regular season games.

TONIGHT'S battle plays the best pair of Class A records against each other. Findlay has won 21 and lost two. East Liverpool has taken 22 of 25 games.

While most experts seemed to lean toward the Potters, there was more than a suspicion that Findlay is being underrated. Carl Bachman's team hasn't lost a game since it dropped its fourth and fifth contests of the season to Xenia Central and Hamilton on successive nights.

NEW KNOXVILLE's flu-weakened quintet needed a basket in the last 50 seconds to break a 49-all tie after Phillipsburg came from far in the ruck.

The tall Rangers led 28-to-16 at halftime and 37-to-20 midway through the third period.

Then Phillipsburg began to click and New Knoxville, with one regular out and three others just over the flu, weakened under the strain.

Perry Mayo and Lee Bohlender led an assault that tied the score with a minute and 35 seconds to go.

But Jack Kuck, brilliant New Knoxville center, broke it up with a last-minute jump shot.

Kuck, one of the Ranger flu victims, had 31 points all told. Bohlender corralled 21 for Phillipsburg.

The victory was Knoxville's 25th in 27 games. It was the third defeat against 25 wins for Phillipsburg.

CURRENT BASEBRAWL between New York Yankee President Larry MacPhail on one side and Leo Durocher and Branch Rickey, manager and president, respectively, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is believed to stem from this "incident" photographed at an exhibition game between Yankees and Dodgers in Havana, Cuba. Durocher charged MacPhail "entertained two known gamblers" in his box. MacPhail denied the gamblers in question were his guests and said they sat in another box. Photo shows MacPhail wearing sun glasses (left). Partially hidden by MacPhail's head is "Memphis" Engleberg (left arrow). At extreme right, over sharp corner of dugout is Connie Immerman. # MANY SEATS ARE EMPTY AT STATE CAGE SESSIONS

COLUMBUS, O., March 21 — Ohio High School Athletic association's efforts to assure a seat for everyone at state tourney sessions resulted in a lot of empty places at both games yesterday.

The afternoon Class B contest between New Knoxville and Phillipsburg drew 2,203. The evening attendance for the Middletown-Ashtabula tussle was 5,464.

Figure filberts added those and found the two sessions drew approximately what the coliseum will hold at one sitting. The official capacity is 7,274.

OHIO STATE NINE SEEKS THIRD VICTORY IN SOUTH

FT. WORTH, TEX., March 21 — The barnstorming Ohio State baseball team was scheduled today to tackle Texas Christian at Ft. Worth in the first contest of a three-game series.

The Bucks got away to a two-and-one record yesterday on their first southern invasion since 1941 when they split a shortened double-header with Southern Methodist. Floyd Stahl's nine pounded two Mustang pitchers for 12 hits and 15 runs in the opener, while Pete Perini and Bob Christofel held the home team to six hits and two runs.

Christofel and George Spencer were not so effective in the five-and-a-half inning nightcap. The Bucks were limited to only two hits and lost, 5 to 1. OSU won the first game of the series, 10 to 0.

ASHVILLE MEETS BLUE RIBBON 5 IN CAGE FINALS

Robtown Eliminated 37-34 In City Industrial Loop Playoff

Ashville KP and Blue Ribbon Dairy will clash next week for the championship of the City Industrial basketball league.

Ashville qualified for the final round Thursday night by defeating Robtown Stock Farm 37-34 in a fast, close game.

Ashville jumped out in front 10-5 the first quarter, increased the lead to 20-11 at the half and 34-24 at the end of three quarters.

In the final period Ashville tried to stall and almost lost as a result. Several quick baskets by Robtown cut the final margin to only three points.

Eugene Wilson and Russ Gregg dividing scoring honors. Wilson had 12 for Ashville and Gregg 12 for Robtown. Gregg got most of his points in the closing minutes as Robtown rallied. Previous to that time "Red" Wilson had guarded Gregg closely and found time to score 11 points himself.

As the result of the victory Ashville will meet Blue Ribbon, first round winner.

In a preliminary to Thursday night's playoff game in Roll and Bowl, Farm Bureau defeated Linden Church of Christ in a game between two Columbus girls' teams. Lucille Redman, a Circleville girl, was high scorer. Score in the game was 9-9 at the half but Miss Redman paced a scoring rally by Farm Bureau that put the winners ahead to stay in the third period.

JACKSON CAGERS ARE HONORED AT PTS BANQUET

Professor H. R. Cotterman
Principal Speaker;
Letters Awarded

Defeat is always the test of strength, declared Prof. H. R. Cotterman of the Capital University, Columbus, in an address Friday night at the annual banquet for basketball players in the Jackson Township school.

The speaker's topic was "The Value of Athletics" and he enumerated the benefits derived from participation in athletic competition. He asserted that "you never really know a man until you see him in defeat".

Also featured on the program was Paul Leithart, Columbus, who entertained with feats of magic. Remarks by R. D. Shauk, Jackson school superintendent, and George D. McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway county schools, rounded out the program. Coach James Kirkpatrick was the toastmaster.

The meal was prepared and served by members of the Jackson Parent-Teacher Society.

Boys winning varsity awards included John Eitel, Norman Schooley, Robert Hulce, Dale Welsh, Gene Hoover, James Holbrook and Wayne Rhoades.

Reserve monograms went to Eugene Sparks, Donald Thacker, Glen Messmore, Ralph Hunt, Robert Eitel, Gerald Easter and Rodger Martindale. Roy Hulce was awarded a letter for his managerial duties. Cheer leaders receiving awards included Vera Rhoades, Sue Easter, Rosemary Mace, Annetta Thomas and Velma Thomas.

FARMERS URGED TO PLANT MORE SOYBEANS HERE

Pickaway county farmers are urged by Chairman John G. Boggs of the county AAA committee to increase the 1947 production of soybeans, to plant about the same acreage of corn as in 1946, and to put in fewer oats than in 1946.

Larger quantities of soybeans are needed because of the continuing world-wide shortage of fats and oils, Chairman Boggs stated. Ohio goal for soybeans is approximately 20 per cent higher than the 1946 harvest.

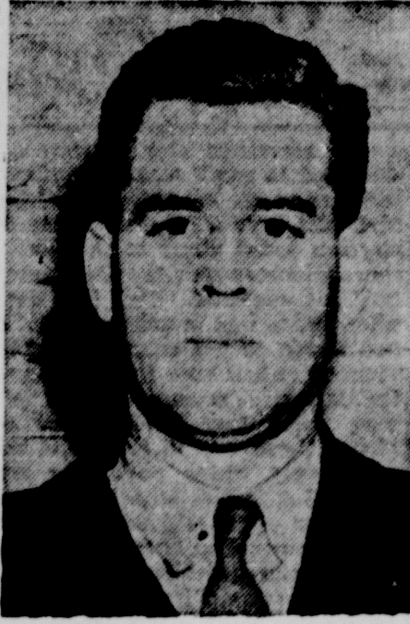

Goals for soybeans, corn, and oats follow recommendations of the U. S. department of agriculture and the Ohio USDA council, Boggs said. The goals indicate the production needed to help meet the nation's requirements.

Although the 1946 production of soybeans was the largest on record, even larger production is required in 1947. Processing facilities have been expanded so that larger quantities can be crushed for oil and meal immediately after the harvest. Much of the increased capacity is of the solvent extraction type, which yields more oil per bushel of soybeans than by expeller or hydraulic press. The oil is used in both food and industrial products. Soybeans also are a valuable source of protein meal for livestock.

Currently the supply of soybean oil is below domestic and foreign requirements.

YOUNG OFFICER NAMED TO HEAD OHIO DISTRICT

COLUMBUS, O., March 21 — Lt. Col. Joseph C. Chedister has been named commanding officer of the Columbus recruiting district, and as such is responsible for Army recruiting in the state of Ohio, according to announcement made today by Headquarters, Second Army, Baltimore, Md. Col. Chedister replaced Lt. Col. W. R. Dayton, who has been transferred to the military personnel procurement division, at Second Army headquarters.

Col. Chedister, former Clarksville, W. Va., high school mathematics teacher is a native of Salem, W. Va. He joined the National Guard at Salem in 1928 and was called to active service in January 1941. Mid-summer of 1941 found him in the Aleutians with the 201st Infantry. He remained in the Aleutians until May 1944 when he returned to the states as a Lieutenant Colonel in charge of the 1st Battalion of the 159th Infantry. After a special training period the 1st Battalion embarked for the ETO where it proceeded through France and on to Romagen, Germany.

After V-E Day, Col. Chedister was in charge of a POW Camp at Buderich and later of another POW Camp at Koblenz, Germany. He returned to the United States in July 1945 and later was assigned to Army Recruiting Service, first at Indianapolis, then as Commanding Officer of the Louisville (Kentucky) Recruiting District. Col. Chedister holds a Captain's commission in the Regular Army.

ALL KINDS OF SHOWS

TURNSTILES ARE whirling. People are turning out by the tens of thousands for all kinds of shows. Convention halls and civic auditoriums, empty through the war years, have found the public flocking through their doors. Sports shows in various parts of the country have had crowds of would-be vacationists looking over guns, fishing tackle, boats, hammocks, tents, outdoor cooking and camping equipment. Flower shows, home building and equipment shows, all have been so well attended that there was difficulty in seeing the exhibits. Dog shows have had maximum entries and throngs of animal lovers as spectators. Attending such affairs is hard work. People must walk from exhibit to exhibit, battle crowds. Moreover, gate charges are not low—a dog show ticket may cost more than a dollar, flower shows a little less.

The American people, like Romans of old, like these exhibitions, all of which stem from the old time Roman circus. They are willing to work hard to get a look-in, and pay good money for the privilege.

WISFUL THINKING

REMEMBER ALEXANDER Kerensky? He headed the Russian government before Lenin and the Bolsheviks took over. That was 30 years ago. Since then he has been living mostly abroad, though now he is in New York City. Despite his long absence from Russia, he has just given an interview predicting that the Soviet regime will fall within five years.

While most non-Russians would be delighted if this were true, it seems like a clear case of wishful thinking. A regime that has stood so long, won a major war and wound up as one of the two most powerful nations in the world is not likely to change its form of government, no matter how many hardships its people may be suffering. Only revolt by the army could bring this about; or after Stalin's death, a struggle between rival claimants to the succession. Either might happen, but Kerensky can hardly be sure.

THEY WANT CLEAN FUN

A CITY OF 35,000 population has many taverns, but no dance hall for young people where liquor is not sold. This is New Brunswick, N. J., the home of Rutgers University. The undergraduate newspaper has properly protested against the city's failure to provide recreation facilities for its youth.

How many other New Brunswicks are there? Cities and villages might well search to see if they are doing their duty by their sons and daughters. If not, they need not be surprised if the younger generation moves away at the first opportunity.

The J. P. Morgan estate, after federal and state taxes, came to only $4,642,000. On that meager amount he might almost have starved to death.

Federal Sales Tax Possible As Debt Reduction Measure

American Legion in Drive To Protect GIs' Benefits

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Talk of a federal sales tax is being heard on Capitol Hill.

Senator George A. Wilson (R), Iowa, thinks such a levy is coming and says he might vote for it as a debt reduction measure.

The Iowa, who sees tax problems both as a senator and former governor, warns of one big obstacle to a federal sales tax—it would cut into a revenue source already tapped by some states.

As a matter of fact, Wilson explains, federal excise levies already are a breach in the sales tax field.

He believes the states and the federal government ought to get together, stake out their respective fields of revenue, and stay within them. Wilson suggests that the United States Conference of Governors take the initiative on the idea.

Real estate taxes are earmarked for the states and local communities, but virtually everything else is wide open to local, state and federal tax competition, Wilson pointed out.

He added that some "collective bargaining" between various governmental units on tax problems can avert future headaches.

THE AMERICAN LEGION is spearheading an all-out drive by veterans' organizations against bills now pending in Congress to weaken employment preferences and other benefits to ex-GIs.

No less than 36 bills now pending in Congress seek, according to the Legion, "to circumvent in one way or another the employment protection afforded to veterans."

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 21—(This is a continuation of the column on the confusing background of the Greek-Turkish issue.)

Both Democrats and Republicans in the government and in congress lack clarity also on the military aspects of the proposed Greek-Turkish relief of $400,000,000. The Republicans, for instance, are split. Few are against, but the split has developed between those in favor of following the Truman recommendation.

Foreign Chairmen Vandenberg and Eaton, for instance, want to rush approval without delay although they admit they cannot make the Truman March 31 deadline. Behind their urgings apparently lies the old report that the Communist guerillas in Greece intend opening a Spring campaign, and the British are getting out March 31, so Greece might remain unprotected for a period. On the other side, Senator Taft wants to find out first what it means. He wants to know if it means we are going to finance and take over British empire commitments around the world, whether this will bring us to grips with Russia, and whether war will come from the grips. No attitude for the party as a whole has been proclaimed.

Behind the Taft policy, I suspect, is a desire to see what the Russians do in the Spring before we commit ourselves to what we will do.

This attitude is likely to have wide following in the congress before the fight is over, for this reason: Greece is rather far away. If we are going to fight Communism, or Russia, we have hardly picked the best spot for the fight. You will remember France and Britain guaranteed the independence of Poland and Czechoslovakia in treaties before the last war. They could not defend either commitment. They let Czechoslovakia go the Nazis and declared war when Poland was invaded, but even so they could do nothing to help Poland directly.

Both Greece and Turkey adjoin Russia (Greece through the Russian satellite Bulgaria.) If Russia wants to capture either, there is really not much we can do about it in a military way. The Russian army is strategically located to capture both.

So if the Truman policy is effected, the most it can mean is to let Russia know that if she invades either state or both, through subterfuge or otherwise, it will mean war with us. Thus we rather leave it in Russia's hands to determine whether or not there shall be a war. She can bring one on, and we cannot stop her.

Now Turkey was not mentioned much in this matter at the outset. Mr. Truman worked her in for the first time when he wrote his message to congress. The Turks have a good army for Turkey, but it is expensive. The question is whether we wish to commit ourselves to financing it from now on. We should have much surplus war material in Europe, particularly Germany, which would be of help to both Greece and Turkey. No one here seems to know or be inclined to say how much. There would be no objection to letting those nations have it which might use it in our interests. An American military mission to each country also seems a minimum requirement.

Congress might be able to pass a resolution or bill authorizing steps along this line without objection. But the question of grave financial commitments which might bleed us white in future months and years, could well await an exploratory debate which Taft demands.

"The Authority on Authorities"

FAR DIFFERENT RESULT
TAKING THE first trick, holding up on the second, and then taking the third—that is by no means your best possible protection against the run of a suit at No Trumps when you have two top trick-takers in it. Holding up on the first trick, and thus being in position to take the second and third, can give you much greater safety in some cases. That is especially true when the partner of the long-suit holder has exactly two cards of the suit.

East opened his heart Q, despite South's having bid that suit. Seeing that he could take two tricks in it, North put in the dummy's K. Three tricks were in sight in spades, two each in the red suits, so that two in clubs would complete his contract. So he led the club 10 to the second trick. West won with the Q and led his heart 9. That proved to be the crucial action that beat the contract.

North held up on that second heart, which East over-played with the 10, then won the heart J lead with the A. Now his hearts were unprotected. When he next led a second club, West played low and East won with the A. He cashed his two established hearts, for the fifth trick by his side.

Note what would have occurred if North had held up on the first heart. When he won the second, West would have been out of the suit. Winning the first club lead, West probably would have returned a spade to the K. The second club would have gone to the A, whereupon East could have knocked out the last heart stop. But his own last entry would then have been gone. West could have won the third club lead, for he would have been out of the suit. He would have taken any return and run his game, with two clubs set up.

SYNOPSIS

Young Sherry Keat refuses to forego the pleasure of a weekend at the farm of Steve Jeffery, beloved family friend, even though her mother, Leda, and sister, Val, have changed their plans about going. Leda, attractive widow and highly successful business woman, is dining with Roger Bedloe, vice-president of her firm, and Val with wealthy Wade Carrington, with whom she is trying to forget her heartbreak over the death in action of her fiancé, Rick Colby. Val is tormented by the knowledge that had it not been for Leda's opposition, she and Rick would have married before he went overseas. Alighting from the train at Brundage, Sherry spies Steve's station wagon parked nearby and climbs in to wait for him. To her surprise, attractive Lex Morell, who introduces himself as Steve's hired man, takes the wheel. Lex had been in the brokerage business before the war, and upon his release from the Army had decided to get some practical experience before investing in a farm of his own. Warm-hearted, elderly Aunt Pen, who keeps house for Steve, greets Sherry joyously. Later, when Steve arrived, and all had consumed Aunt Pen's delicious dinner, a strange feeling of happiness stole over Sherry. She knew instantly her meeting with Lex was responsible. Her happiness is short lived, however, when Steve tells her Lex is engaged to be married. Lex was troubled, Steve added, because his fiancée was opposed to him buying a farm. During the night Sherry hears Lex pacing the floor and knocks on his door to invite him down to the kitchen for an snack. She tells him of her concern over Val, but is disappointed when he fails to confide his troubles to her. Meanwhile, at home Val phones Wade to pick her up at Susan Fyle's cocktail party. Despite the fact that he has been married and divorced several times, Wade has fallen deeply in love with Val, and following dinner, suggests his apartment as the proper setting for the question he wishes to ask her. Val, physically attracted to Wade, cynically reasons to herself that marriage to him might be fun... while it lasted.

CHAPTER TWELVE

WADE SAID, tucking Val's hand under his arm as they sat on the taxi's seat, "What are you smiling about?"

Val looked up into his eyes. "Maybe—because I'm happy."

Wade considered a moment. "Happy over something that has happened—or something that's going to happen?"

"Just happy," Val said, hating her cheek briefly against his shoulder. "No reasons."

It occurred to her that perhaps Wade's tone of tentativeness, of not quite certainty, as he gave the address of his apartment hadn't been due to a doubt of her reaction, but to some uneasiness in himself. If she was right, if Wade was on the verge of asking her to marry him, perhaps he wasn't quite convinced in his own mind of the wisdom of his course.

What was that old saying? A housekeeper they had had when Val was twelve or so used to be fond of quoting proverbs and some of them occasionally came back to Val. "A burned child dreads the fire—" that was it. And why shouldn't Wade be a "burned child"?

She looked away from the mirror and into Wade's face. Then his arms went around her and she felt the muscular hardness with a kind of exultation. Her eyelids closed as he kissed her. In the darkness of her mind, her thoughts whirled in a confused pattern. She was aware of her physical response to him, of the blood throbbing in her temples, of her arms going up and around Wade's neck, feeling where marriage was concerned? Val tried to recall what Susan had told her of his ex-wives. One, the first, had been a debutante, one of his own social circle in the northern suburb where the Carrington family home was. That had been Wade's wife in his twenties. It had lasted only a couple of years. Then there had been Irina Bordova, the dancer. Val had seen her last year when the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo was in town and she was lovely, sheer poetry in motion. But Susan, who had known Wade for years, said she had a horrible temper and that no man on earth could get along with her—she had had four husbands all told, before and after Wade. Then, only five years or so ago, Wade had married a young movie actress, Leigh Van Dine. Wade himself had told Val about that.

"My gosh, it was awful," he had said. "She used to get up at six o'clock in the morning. And if she stayed up later than nine at night it showed in her face the next day. We were married six months and she was dieting all that time—and dieting is very hard on the disposition. She was—still is, for that matter, a very beautiful girl, but she has the mind of a high-grade moron. And I hated Hollywood, and her friends bored me to death and she wouldn't consider giving up the movies. It was purgatory in technicolor. I assure you..."

Maybe, Val thought, he isn't considering marrying me at all—after his experiences, why should he want to marry again? Maybe—she groped wryly—I'm counting my chickens before they're hatched.

Well, she would know quite soon at any rate. Wade was paying off the taxi, was holding the door for Val, taking her across the deep-carpeted lobby to the elevator. She was aware of her heart, beating rather fast, as the car slid silently upward. Wade's unobtrusive Filipino servant let them in. A slight brown shadow in his spotless white coat, seeming almost faceless in his anonymity, he took their wraps and faded away like a ripple on water.

Wade's apartment was tastefully masculine, with decorator touches that were obviously expensive. The rugs were deep; so were the chairs and couches. There was a fire in the fireplace and the heavy moss-green drapes were drawn across the windows. Val walked across to hold her cold finger tips toward the fire. Her mirrored face looked back at her from the glass wall above the mantel. She saw Wade's face there, too, turned toward her, the dark eyes ardent.

She looked away from the mirror and into Wade's face. Then his arms went around her and she felt the muscular hardness with a kind of exultation. Her eyelids closed as he kissed her. Wade's apartment was tastefully masculine, with decorator touches that were obviously expensive. The rugs were deep; so were the chairs and couches. There was a fire in the fireplace and the heavy moss-green drapes were drawn across the windows. Val walked across to hold her cold finger tips toward the fire. Her mirrored face looked back at her from the glass wall above the mantel. She saw Wade's face there, too, turned toward her, the dark eyes ardent.

She looked away from the mirror and into Wade's face. Then his arms went around her and she felt the muscular hardness with a kind of exultation. Her eyelids closed as he kissed her. In the darkness of her mind, her thoughts whirled in a confused pattern. She was aware of her physical response to him, of the blood throbbing in her temples, of her arms going up and around Wade's neck, feeling where marriage was concerned? Val tried to recall what Susan had told her of his ex-wives. One, the first, had been a debutante, one of his own social circle in the northern suburb where the Carrington family home was. That had been Wade's wife in his twenties. It had lasted only a couple of years. Then there had been Irina Bordova, the dancer. Val had seen her last year when the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo was in town and she was lovely, sheer poetry in motion. But Susan, who had known Wade for years, said she had a horrible temper and that no man on earth could get along with her—she had had four husbands all told, before and after Wade. Then, only five years or so ago, Wade had married a young movie actress, Leigh Van Dine. Wade himself had told Val about that.

"My gosh, it was awful," he had said. "She used to get up at six o'clock in the morning. And if she stayed up later than nine at night it showed in her face the next day. We were married six months and she was dieting all that time—and dieting is very hard on the disposition. She was—still is, for that matter, a very beautiful girl, but she has the mind of a high-grade moron. And I hated Hollywood, and her friends bored me to death and she wouldn't consider giving up the movies. It was purgatory in technicolor. I assure you..."

Maybe, Val thought, he isn't considering marrying me at all—after his experiences, why should he want to marry again? Maybe—she groped wryly—I'm counting my chickens before they're hatched.

Well, she would know quite soon at any rate. Wade was paying off the taxi, was holding the door for Val, taking her across the deep-carpeted lobby to the elevator. She was aware of her heart, beating rather fast, as the car slid silently upward. Wade's unobtrusive Filipino servant let them in. A slight brown shadow in his spotless white coat, seeming almost faceless in his anonymity, he took their wraps and faded away like a ripple on water.

In the darkness of her mind, her thoughts whirled in a confused pattern. She was aware of her physical response to him, of the blood throbbing in her temples, of her arms going up and around Wade's neck, feeling the crisp short ends of hair on the back of his neck under her fingers. Forgetfulness was in his kiss—the emotion it aroused washed over the memory of Rick like a tide breaking over a stone. In time the stone would be worn smooth, with no sharp edges to hurt—it might even be gone.

After a time Wade's mouth came away from hers, but Val stood there, her eyes still closed, feeling his hands gripping her shoulders as though he couldn't let her go.

He said, his deep voice deeper than ever with feeling, "That's what I've been wanting all evening."

"I, too," Val murmured and knew that it was so. She opened her eyes then and her lips parted in a little smile.

Wade smiled, too, but his eyes were serious, more serious than Val could ever remember seeing them. He said, his voice oddly hesitant, "Val—I'm crazy about you. You know that, of course—I've been telling you so for weeks. And it's getting worse. I can't get you out of my mind—I don't even try to any more, although I'll admit I did at first. Frankly, darling, I didn't want to let in love again—I hadn't the remotest intention of asking another woman to marry me. But—" his look was deep on Val's, probing, hopeful—"I find I have fallen in love. And I want very much to marry you—more, I think, than I ever wanted anything in my life before—"

So, there it was. Val didn't answer quickly, although she had been thinking things out for so long before he spoke, that her decision was almost formed. Presently she said, her voice low, but very steady, "I will marry you, Wade. It's what I want, too."

He held her close again, his arms more gentle this time, his lips just touching her hair. He said, "You're so sweet, Val—so lovely, so young. You make me—sorry for many things—"

Val said, "Don't be sorry for anything that's gone before—don't think about it, darling. Let's not think of the past at all—only each other. Let's just go on from here, from this moment." Her voice deepened with sudden confidence. "I think we can make each other very happy."

Wade's faint smile was wry. "If it weren't that you were a little kid in hairbows at the time, I might wish we'd met fifteen years ago."

"But I was a little kid," Val said sensibly, "so why dwell on it? If we'd met even five years ago—even a year—we might not have been attracted to each other so much. Because we were different people then—and it's now we've fallen in love. And that's the way I want it."

Their lips met again in a long kiss. When it was over, Wade said unsteadily, "And now I'm going to take you home—without even offering you a drink." He asked then, his voice almost humble, "You'll marry me soon, Val?"

She nodded. "Very soon..."

Program For Chorus Concert Is Announced

Portsmouth Singers To Be Heard Here Tuesday Night

Business and Professional Woman's club members will present the Portsmouth Male chorus at the Circleville high school auditorium, Tuesday March 25 at 8:15 p. m.

Chorus is composed of prominent Portsmouth business and professional men who have made music their avocation. Their vocal selections have been very well received on many occasions in cities in the southern part of Ohio. They broadcast for several years on a coast-to-coast hook-up. Music lovers of the community are being offered an evening of entertainment here at home, that has not often been an opportunity of Circleville and Pickaway county residents.

Willis Warner, baritone soloist with the group is a graduate of Circleville high school; a brother of Mrs. Blanche Glick, route 3, and Mrs. Herbert Snyder, Kingston, and the son of former Sheriff and Mrs. William H. Warner, East High street.

Tickets for the concert may be secured from any member of the B and P Woman's club, Hott's music store, or at the door, night of the concert.

The following selections will be presented by the chorus, "A Choral Prelude" by Homier; "On the Sea" by Buck; "In a Persian Market" by Ketelbey; "Stout Hearted Men" by Romberg; "The Lost Chord" by Sullivan; "Gloria in Excelsis" (12th Mass) by Mozart; "The Holy City" by Adams; "The Creation" by Richter; "The Rosary" by Kern; "Ol' Man River" by Kern; "Anvil Chorus" by Verdi; "Dance, My Comrades" by Bennett and "Song of the Jolly Roger" by Candish.

Quartet composed of Ralph Kerns, Elza Cook, William Mercer and Theodore Olson will present, "Asleep in the Deep" by Petrie and "Lucky Jim" by Parks. Elza Cook, pianist will play "Polanais" in A flat major by Chopin and Mr. Warner will sing, "Song of the Toreador" by Bizet.

Pythian Sisters Meet In Castle

Members of the Pythian sisters held their regular meeting Thursday evening in Pythian Castle with Mrs. Minnie Newton in charge. Plans were made for a benefit card party to be held in conjunction with the Knights of Pythias on Wednesday April 16.

After a short business session, Mrs. Johnnie Lee Jacoby, Westerville district deputy grand chief, conducted a school of instructions. Mrs. Anna Dye, past grand guard, and Mrs. Edith Spidel, Westerville grand senior, were guests. Sixty-five members and guests were present from Westerville, Newark, Reynoldsburg, Chillicothe, Columbus, Adelphi, Amanda, Ashville, Canal Winchester and Stoutsville. Next meeting will be Thursday April 17.

AID TO MEET
Mrs. Homer Wright, route 4, assisted by Mrs. I. M. Preece will entertain members of Pleasant View Ladies Aid Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Wright home in Saltcreek township.

Scioto Grangers Meet In School

Scioto grange members held their regular meeting Wednesday evening in Scioto township school auditorium, Commercial Point, with 30 members in attendance. Dwight Bethards, worthy master, was in charge of the business session.

Ben Grace, captain of the third and fourth degree team, announced that the team would confer degrees on a class of candidates at the Washington grange, Friday evening March 28. Mrs. Paul Beers, chairman of home economics committee, said the Scioto grange would serve dinner at the stock sale in Circleville Wednesday March 26.

Mrs. Ben Grace, lecturer, told the group that John Dowler, Ashville, would be present at the next regular meeting April 2, and would present a discussion on "Vegetable Gardening". At this meeting all ladies of the grange are requested to bring small potted plants, flower seeds, flower slips or bulbs for the exchange. Mrs. John Disbennett will give a talk on "Flower Hints".

Program was arranged and presented by members between the ages of 30 and 50, with Mrs. Paul Beers, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Carter. "Where the River Shannon Flows" was sung by the entire group, and Bernard Ball gave a talk on "Co-operatives". Mrs. Orville Dountz read, "The Story of St. Patrick".

Piano duet was presented by Mrs. Beers and Mrs. Carter, and Mrs. Myrl Hinton conducted a quiz contest. Mrs. Grace lead the group in a St. Patrick contest and Mrs. Carter directed the married couples in a "sock" contest.

Mrs. S. E. Beers and Mrs. John Hennick served refreshments at the conclusion of the program.

DUV MEETS

Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War met Tuesday evening in the Post room of Memorial hall, for a brief business session. Mrs. C. O. Kerns, president, presided, and led the members in discussions of various activities for the future. Due to the illness of many members, there were no refreshments served, and the program was not presented.

MISS HAMMAN HONOR GUEST AT LINEN SHOWER

Miss Mary Martha Hamman, Williamsport, fiancée of Roger Hitler May, Route 1 was guest of honor at a linen shower, when Mrs. Ulin McGhee, of the Williamsport community entertained in her home Thursday evening. Twenty-five guests were invited from Clarksburg, Washington C. H., Williamsport, Atlanta and Circleville.

Mrs. McGhee had improvised a miniature altar before the mantle of the livingroom, with the figures of a small bride and bridegroom standing in a bower of ferns and floral decorations. Gifts from the guests were placed around the beautifully and artistically decorated setting.

Dessert course was served buffet style in the diningroom at the tea table which was centered with a low bowl of green carnations flanked by tall burning white tapers. Mrs. Ralph May, mother of the bridegroom-to-be, and Mrs. Royal Valley Hamman, mother of the bride elect, presided at the tea table.

MARRIED 54 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Rader, Watt street, were quietly celebrating their 54th wedding anniversary Friday. Mr. Rader has been in ill health for some time, and now is in the Home and Hospital, South Scioto street, where Mrs. Rader will spend the afternoon with him.

MARK ANNIVERSARY

Close friends of Mrs. Harry Weethee were invited Thursday to 207 East Mill street, for a quiet celebration in observance of her birthday anniversary. Mrs. Weethee has been ill but now is recuperating nicely.

Miss Southward Group C Chairman

Miss Clara P. Southward was appointed chairman of group C, Woman's Association of the Presbyterian church, at the meeting Wednesday evening in the social rooms of the church.

She has for her corps of officers, Miss Winifred Parrett, co-chairman, Mrs. John Eshelman, secretary, Miss Alta Bartley, treasurer, and Mrs. Bryan Custer, publicity. Mrs. D. A. Yates, Mrs. C. D. Wells and Mrs. David Harman will serve on the program committee. Mrs. G. I. Nickerson, Mrs. Fred Newhouse and Mrs. Joe Bell will be on the telephone committee. Mrs. Grace Wentworth and Mrs. Roe Morris will be responsible for the canceled sales tax stamps.

Preceding the meeting the group had a covered-dish dinner. The Rev. Donald E. Mitchell gave a short address to the members and conducted the devotional period.

MEETING POSTPONED

Scheduled meeting for members of Group F, Woman's Association of the Presbyterian church, to be held in the home of Mrs. Edwin S. Shane, this Friday evening has been postponed until Friday March 28, at 7:30 p. m.

1946 Elections Cost Ohioans More Than Three Million Dollars

COUNTY COSTS SET AT $9,732 BY SECRETARY

Hummel Report On Election Costs Last Year Shows $3,039,563 Spent

Cost of the 1946 elections in Pickaway county was $9,732. The figure is part of a total for the entire state of more than three million dollars, it was stated Friday by Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel.

All but "a few thousand dollars" came from the 88 counties, which bear the brunt of election costs, Secretary Hummel said. He placed the counties' election expenses at $3,039,563, including $2,189,662 for personal services. A total of $849,901 went for printing, equipment and miscellaneous expenses.

Hummel's own office gets off lightly, he reported. The only state costs are the few sample ballots printed and extra help and telephone service on election night. This Hummel placed at "less than $2,000."

Precinct judges and clerks received a major share of the personnel funds, getting $489,000 at the primary and $499,000 at the general election. Special elections added $29,000 to the total. Personnel of elections boards received $1,055,364, split $265,663 to the board members themselves, $101,656 for clerks, $77,341 for deputy clerks, $367,489 for assistant clerks, and $243,213 for part-time employees.

Ballot printing costs amounted to $95,827 for the primary, $143,772 for the November election, and $14,063 for special elections.

Rent of polling places was the next biggest non-personnel item, amounting to $127,133. Precinct registration lists cost $63,812.

Since the number of voters casting ballots at the November election totaled 2,343,862, it might be figured that the voting cost per voting Ohioan for the year was slightly in excess of a dollar and a quarter.

Populous Cuyahoga county, of course, led all counties in total costs with $675,163, while Morgan county spent only $4,505.

HOME REPAIR IN COUNTY MEANS BIG JOB IN 1947

Pickaway County's non-farm home owners will spend an estimated $623,000 on repair and modernization work during 1947.

At least a third and probably more than half of all dwellings in the county will be improved or repaired this year, according to estimates released by the Title Council of America. "Increased supplies of building materials and easing of restrictions should make possible a record volume of home modernization throughout the country," said F. B. Ortmann, chairman of the Council's residential construction committee.

The county's 6,351 single-family homes will account for most expenditures, the study revealed. Painting is the most often wanted improvement, with about a third of all owners planning to redecorate home exteriors or some room of the interior. About 10 per cent of all dwellings need new roofs or roofing repairs, and large numbers will have waterpipes repaired, bathrooms tiled or showers installed during the year, according to the report.

As evidence of the increase in building supplies, Ortmann pointed out that floor and wall tile volume is expected to hit an all-time high this year. "Stepped-up production of materials means that the construction industry can both build record

WHITE HOUSE EASTER EGG ROLL CANCELLED AGAIN

WASHINGTON, March 21—The White House has announced that because millions still are hungry in war-ravaged lands the traditional Easter egg roll on the lawn of the executive mansion again will forego.

The egg rolling, a time-honored part of the Easter celebration for Washington youngsters, was cancelled last year because of the food conservation program.

numbers of houses and do the repair work neglected during the war," he said.

Home repair expenditures in the county are part of a $246,027,000 modernization program being undertaken in Ohio this year, according to the study.

PIANO FOR SERVICES AT HOME, HOSPITAL NEEDED

Members of the Pickaway County Ministerial association are looking for a piano to be used in services at the Home and Hospital.

Anyone having a piano, which he would like to donate, is asked to contact the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren church, president of the ministerial association.

Ministers have been conducting services at the Home and Hospital regularly but are handicapped by lack of any musical instrument to furnish accompaniment for singing.

GRILL BURGLARIZED

Thieves who burglarized the B. and F. Grill at South Bloomfield were being sought Thursday by the Pickaway county sheriff's department. The burglary occurred some time Tuesday night and was reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday. Deputy Vern L. Pontious, who investigated, said the loot included two cartons of cigarettes, a card of finger-nail clippers, and 105 pennies. Entrance was gained by cutting the glass from a side window.
